Moon Exploration Goes Well

LANDING SITE—This artist's sketch of the Apollo 17 landing site at Taurus-Littrow shows the three extra vehicular activity

(eva) areas scheduled for the Astronauts. They will travel more than 20 miles during their explorations.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — In the valley of Taurus-Littrow, a gray geologic wonder dotted with auto-sized boulders, two Americans rested on the moon today. Tonight they search a lunar landslide for perhaps the most ancient rocks ever seen.

Astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt slept late in their craft, Challenger. They were bone-tired from a near-perfect lunar landing and nearly seven hours setting up a sophisticated scientific camp and scouting the surrounding terrain.

Tonight, the 11th and 12th—perhaps last—men to visit the moon in this century, will drive their electric-powered car, Rover, to a mountain slide on the South Massif which spilled rock debris across the valley in some ancient time.

There, they hope to find rocks created in the process by which the moon was formed and shaped, material dating perhaps to lunar beginnings 4.6 billion years ago.

Overhead, alone aboard the command ship America, the third Apollo spaceman, Ronald E. Evans, also rested. Tonight he will operate an array of science instruments and cameras which study the moon from orbit.

The valley was everything and more than they had expected. Boulders larger than panel trucks, coated with glass and pitted from the impact of meteorites, choked the valley floor like icebergs floating on a gray, dead sea. They saw glass sparkling in craters and looked long at the mountains, which appeared soft, as though covered with fur.

Cernan unwrapped an American flag which once was displayed in the Mission Control Center, and the explorers planted their nation's sixth banner on the moon.

"Deploying that flag has got to be one of the most proud moments in my life," said Cernan.

"This flag has flown in Mission Control since Apollo 11 (the first landing). We very proudly deploy it on the moon to stay for as long as it can in honor of all those people who have worked so hard to put us and every crew here and to make the U.S. and mankind something different than it was."

Quickly, the spacemen learned that exploring the moon can be a dirty business. Both fell down, and their suits, which seemed to glow ghostlike in the blinding sunlight, quickly became smeared with the clinging gray dirt.

"I just got my first initiation to getting very dirty," said Schmitt after his first fall in the moon's low gravity. "I haven't quite learned how to pick up rocks with my hands yet... which is very embarrassing for a geologist. That's why I fell down."

The astronauts quickly deployed their lunar rover, and Cernan boarded the little car for a short test spin.

"Challenger's baby is on the road!" he exclaimed.

But the lunar excursion, begun as a frolic, soon turned into a grim contest of man against the moon.

Cernan drilled an eight-foot bit into the moon, using an electric drill, and then tried to pull the bit out for a core-tube sample.

First he tugged by hand. No go. Then he attached a jacklike tool. No go. Then Cernan threw his weight against the jack, bouncing down into the dust on his hands and knees. No go. Again and again he tried, his breath coming in bursts.

Mission Control warned him several times to slow down, saying he was building up too much heat inside his space suit. Once, he was told his heart beat was rising rapidly, and the astronaut paused.

Schmitt joined Cernan, and together they worked the cores free.

The astronauts deployed the science station, a series of instruments attached to a central power station by wires which wiggled and twisted as if alive in the low lunar gravity.

Tardily, but still game, the astronauts made a short drive in the lunar rover, motoring to craters a few hundred yards away to collect samples.

Freezing Rain, Snow, Fog Slam Midcontinent

An ice storm tabbed as "extremely dangerous" by the National Weather Service glazed a 12-state area today from the southern Plains to the middle Atlantic region.

Freezing rain and sleet pelted Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, southern Michigan, Pennsylvania and the Virginias.

Highways became treacherous and there were numerous school closings because of transportation breakdowns

ROUNDTOWN

AN inch of freezing rain is blamed for eight traffic accidents in the Pickaway County area since 5:38 a.m. Tuesday, according to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department. . . . None were serious

The rain also closed Westfall High School, Brooks-Yates School and the Amanda-Clearcreek School system. . . . Some of the other schools were late in starting.

Village Left Out Of Tax Sharing

PERRY, Ohio (AP) — Little Perry Village was left off Lake County's list of revenue-sharing communities because the federal government didn't know who to send the checks to.

Mayor Thomas Langshaw says the village will get its share—$1,700—in a few weeks. He said the village was left off the list because "we were late in getting letters in to Washington, telling who to send the checks to."

Withworth Becomes Workhouse Chief

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — William Withworth has officially taken over as superintendent of the Cincinnati Workhouse.

Withworth, guard captain for the past six years, became acting superintendent last summer when George Studt retired.

Withworth was appointed by City Manager E. Robert Turner on recommendation of Safety Director Henry Sandman. Withworth finished first in a recent civil service test for the post and was sworn Monday.

Weather

Occasional freezing rain today, changing to rain by tonight. High near 35, low near 30. Showers likely tomorrow with cold winds. High near 40.

Truman's Condition 'Unstable'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman's respiration, pulse and temperature were unstable overnight, the former president's doctors reported today.

A spokesman at Research Hospital and Medical Center said at 10 a.m. EST that the 88-year-old Truman's "vital signs became somewhat unstable during the night. Respiration, pulse and temperature increased. Blood pressure remains within normal limits."

The spokesman did not elaborate and did not supply specific pulse, temperature and blood pressure counts as has been the practice in previous briefings.

The hospital's three advisors Monday described Truman as resting, but doctors cautioned that his condition "still is serious and will continue so for an indefinite time."

Truman was taken to the hospital last Tuesday after he displayed symptoms of lung congestion. He failed to respond to antibiotic medication and was classified as critical Wednesday when kidney and heart problems developed.

Doctors closely monitored irregularities in Truman's heartbeat Monday night; but, during the final briefing, a hospital spokesman said the doctors made no further comments on his heart rhythm.

The 10 p.m. EST medical report said, "At President Truman's age, arteriosclerotic changes are expected. They affect the central nervous system and the kidney and heart functions to varying degrees."

Truman was taken off the critical list Sunday after he showed signs of general improvement.

The hospital reports Monday added that Truman continued to receive oxygen by face mask to reduce stress on his heart.

Truman was visited Monday by his 87-year-old wife, Bess, and their daughter, Margaret Truman Daniel.

Viet Peace Pact May Be Nearing

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho opened the 14th meeting of their secret peace talks today in a villa in suburban Gif-sur-Yvette.

Kissinger earlier unexpectedly dropped in on a subcommittee of the top negotiators' deputies discussing details of a possible agreement. Tho was not present.

At the end of the subcommittee meeting, Kissinger and the other participants drove the 12 miles to Gif-sur-Yvette.

It was the first time in four years of secret negotiations that Kissinger and Tho set up subcommittees to discuss details of a possible accord immediately before a plenary meeting. The quickened pace suggested that the talks were approaching a climax, but both sides maintained their blanket of secrecy.

French dispatches from Peking said Premier Chou En-lai told newsmen Monday: "An agreement could be signed in Paris in the next two or three days."

Expectations of a break in the negotiations were heightened by a report from Bangkok that U.S. Ambassador Leonard Unger had briefed the key members of Thailand's ruling junta for an hour today on the progress of the Paris talks. Much of the U.S. air forces now carrying on the war against North Vietnam are based in Thailand.

The higher ranking subcommittee included William J. Porter, the chief U.S. delegate at the four-party Paris peace talks; William Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state for Southeast Asian affairs; Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief delegate at the weekly peace talks, and Deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach.

The other subcommittee was made up of technical experts. Kissinger and Tho met for four hours Monday, beginning and ending with the usual broad smiles and cordial handshakes. It was their 13th meeting since they began three weeks ago to revise the ceasefire agreement they drafted in October.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu proposed the release of all prisoners of war on both sides, the observance of the annual Christmas cease-fire and separate negotiations during the cease-fire between his government and the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong to work out a peace agreement and political settlement. He said the cease-fire could be extended as long as the Communists were willing to observe it.

The South Vietnamese president also repeated his persistent demand that all North Vietnamese troops withdraw from South Vietnam. This time he said that the South Vietnamese army would demobilize as many troops as the North Vietnamese withdraw.

Western political observers in Saigon predicted that Hanoi would reject or ignore the proposal, as it has similar Saigon plans in the past. Some South Vietnamese legislators said they found nothing new in Thieu's offer.

Shultz Holds Consultations On Wage, Price Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz lined up a series of closed-door consultations today to determine the future shape of wage-price controls that President Nixon wants to retain.

Sources said the Nixon administration wants to move "pretty swiftly" in the private talks with government, business and labor officials, hoping to wind up the consultations within three or four weeks.

This would mean the administration would be in a position to make a decision early in January. The sources indicated the present control structure, headed by the Cost of Living Council, the Price Commission and Pay Board, probably will remain in place.

Shultz, the President's chief economic policymaker, told newsmen Monday that the administration will seek extension of controls beyond their legal expiration date next April 30. In the meantime, talks with the people who control wages and prices and with the people who are controlled will be held to determine a modified control system.

Shultz said the new system probably would be in place before next April 30.

He said the administration has no preconceived notion of whether controls should be more or less extensive than the present system.

Shultz also announced that Nixon has determined that he can and will hold federal spending to $250 billion during the current fiscal year, meaning a number of agencies in government will find themselves slapped with cutbacks in coming weeks. The cutbacks will be announced about the time the new budget is sent to Congress in January.

Shultz told reporters that Nixon has ordered a freeze on all new hiring and promotions in the federal government until the new budget is submitted. In addition, he said, there will be no pay raises for federal government executives, senators and congressmen and federal judges in 1973.

Shultz said the next budget, covering the 12 months beginning July 1, 1973, will be balanced on a full-employment basis, meaning that Nixon is continuing his philosophy that federal spending should be roughly equal to the amount of taxes that theoretically would be collected if the economy were operating at full employment.

Cincy School Board Restores Sports

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati School Board has voted unanimously to restore junior high and reserve high school sports to the level of Dec. 21, 1970.

The programs were halted then by budget cuts.

Solons Eye Pay Boost, Tax Sharing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House turns its attention to federal revenue sharing today as senators decide whether to breathe new life into an ill-fated bill to raise the pay of legislators and county officials.

Sen. Paul Gillmor, R-12 Tiffin, a member of the Ways & Means Committee which rejected the pay raise bill Monday, said he may move to have it reconsidered to include only the pay of county officials. "We need to take care of our county people this year," Gillmor said.

Both chambers have floor sessions on tap as the legislature begins what could be the last week of the lame duck session. Up for a vote in the House is a Republican-sponsored bill that would provide for the distribution of about $69 million in federal revenue sharing funds for the calendar year 1972.

The bill faced an uncertain fate since Democrats, who take control of the House Jan. 1, have their own ideas about how the money should be distributed.

Gov. John J. Gilligan's office is preparing a bill for introduction at the new session next month, and he could veto any Republican effort to earmark the funds.

Gilligan spokesmen are predicting the GOP bill will not pass. "I don't think some of the Republicans are very hot over it," said Robert Tenenbaum, the governor's news secretary.

The Ways & Means Committee's vote on the pay raise was 3-3 with 4 needed on the 7-member committee. Joining Gillmor in voting no were Sens. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, and Anthony Novak, D-23 Cleveland. Chairman Michael J.

Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, favored the bill along with Sens. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan, and Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington. Sen. Clara E. Weisenborn, R-5 Dayton, was absent.

Gillmor said he opposed it because he favors granting increases for legislators on the basis of $25 a day for expenses. He offered an amendment which would have authorized such payments for days of actual attendance. The committee voted the amendment down with only Gillmor and Miss Valiquette favoring it.

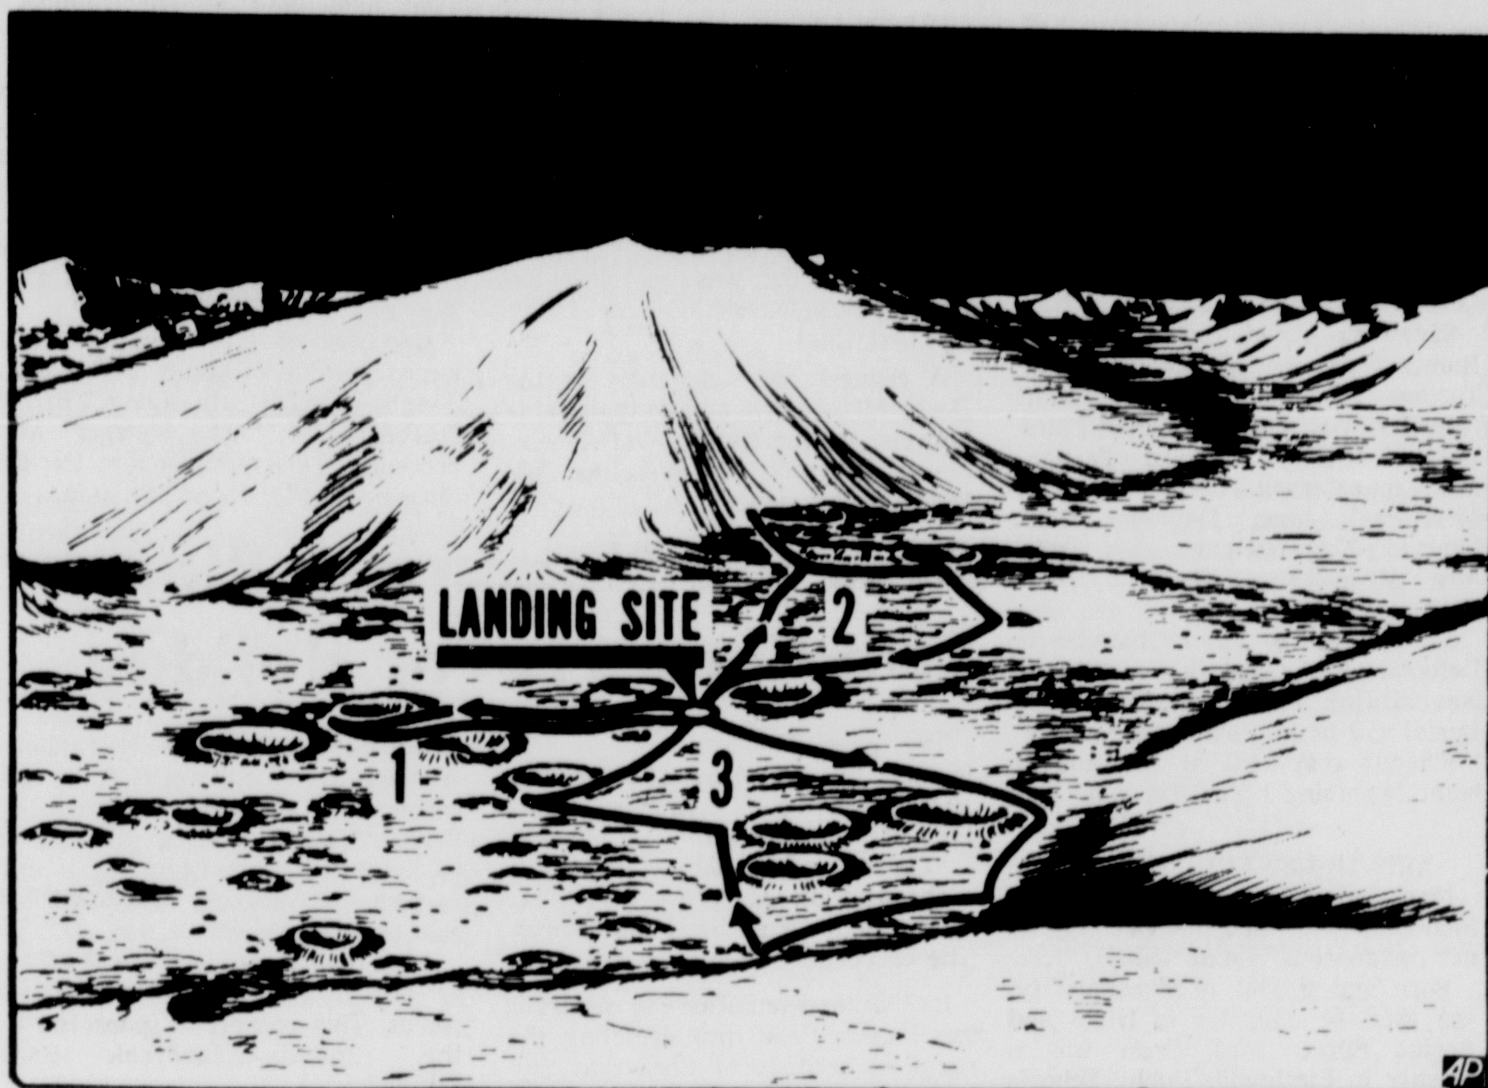

Maloney also offered an amendment which would have boosted the proposed increases for legislators and adjusted those suggested for county officials to give more than proposed to officials in the higher population counties. His amendment lost, also on a 3-3 vote.

The bill was based on recommendations of the newly-created Elected Official and Judicial Compensation Commission. It contained increases for senators and representatives from $12,750 to $14,000, and hikes for top legislative leaders from $16,750 to $18,500 annually.

County increases would range from about 10 to 22 per cent, with the biggest increases going to counties with the least population. The raises were described by the commission as being within Federal Wage Board guidelines.

Maloney wanted to increase lawmakers pay by about 17 per cent, providing a base of $15,000 with top leaders going to $19,500 a year. Also under his amendment, the top county increase would have been 20 per cent and the lowest 15 per cent.

Junior High Students Given Realistic Taste Of Tyranny

NORTH OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Guards armed with automatic weapons policed the corridors of North Ogden Junior High School for the second day today in a frighteningly realistic lesson in life without freedom.

Troops from the mythical foreign power of Triangula invaded the school Monday morning shortly after classes commenced and imposed a stiff order on the surprised pupils.

The "invasion" was the idea of Principal Carl C. DeYoung. He said he was responding to complaints by a "flagboy" who told him many of his fellow students appeared apathetic during flag-raising ceremonies each morning.

The soldiers were real — disguised volunteers from the 688rd Artillery Unit of the U.S. Army Reserves.

"We're not throwing rocks at communism," DeYoung said Monday night after the first day of authoritarian rule at his school. "What we are trying to teach is a single love for American freedom and a respect for some of its symbols such as the flag."

The "enemy" guards wear black triangular patches and represent a make-believe dictatorship. DeYoung said the pupils have not been told when the harsh rule will end, although secret plans are for its conclusion Wednesday with a "patriotic assembly" to which parents will be invited.

Brisk military trials were held throughout Monday when students violated a tough set of rules handed out by the occupation force.

Among the rules were such things as requirements to sit at attention all day and to stand at attention when reciting lessons. Accused violators always were found guilty. Punishment typically is a cleanup detail.

"We'll give you a chance to plead your case before we find you guilty," said Col. Clair Frischknecht, commander of the invasion force, at an assembly announcing the school takeover.

DeYoung said the objective of the experiment is to instill in his pupils "a feeling for values" of such concepts as freedom and commonplace expressions such as the Pledge of Allegiance, which is recited at the school each Monday morning.

Long Ohio-Michigan Battle Over Territory Nears End

DETROIT (AP) — The Toledo War, a border dispute smoldering between Michigan and Ohio for more than 137 years, may come to an official end soon.

The U.S. Supreme Court started hearing arguments Monday from attorneys for the two states and the court is expected to rule within the next few weeks, possibly bringing peace to the Ohio-Michigan border at long last.

Back in April of 1835, the so-called Toledo War began when a Michigan posse attacked a survey party suspected of trying to draw a new border between the state of Ohio and Michigan Territory with Toledo on the Ohio side.

The people of Michigan claimed Congress used bad maps when it set up the state of Ohio, and that Toledo was in Michigan. For a long time, no one was quite sure.

Federal Agents

Tally UMW Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government agents begin counting votes today in the court-ordered union election that pitted United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle against Miners for Democracy candidate Arnold Miller.

The Labor Department said it will take several days to count the ballots from nearly 200,000 working and retired coal miners in 25 states. The ballots were cast Dec. 1-8 and the boxes sealed by federal agents before being shipped to the Labor Department.

Aides of the 70-year-old Boyle, whose 1969 opponent was murdered after that election, predicted he will win again in the election that U.S. District Court Judge William B. Bryant ordered after finding widespread voting violations in the contest three years ago.

Westfall Board Seeks Addition To Bus Fleet

Westfall Board took action to increase the school bus fleet if permission is granted by the State Department.

The board of education, meeting in regular session Monday, accepted bids from H & S Company for International chassis and Superior Body Co. for the school bus body. Members voted to purchase two buses, if an addition to the fleet is permitted, or just one if the state denies the request.

Repairs to the high school gymnasium roof were put off when contractors, Ranney and Sons, requested postponement of the work until weather conditions become more favorable. The board agreed.

Proposals are being sought for replacement of acoustic units on the gymnasium ceiling. One proposal of space tone units has been received from Myron Corning Co.

Home tutoring was approved for Timothy Bush, Kendall Pell and Cathy Lambert Eital.

A request was approved for the Darby PTG to hold a basketball game between its faculty and WTVN employees. The game has been set for Feb. 16 at the high school.

Amanda-Clearcreek Plans Two Concerts For Holiday

Two public concerts will be performed by the Amanda-Clearcreek High School Music Department during the Christmas season.

"Christmas Old and New" is the title of the program to be presented Sunday by the high school band and chorus. The concert is slated for 3 p.m.

Its choral presentation will consist of two sections, the first depicting the religious heritage of Christmas and featuring many old favorite carols and songs in a candlelight setting.

The second section will feature secular songs of the season, including a choral setting of the Clement Clarke Moore's immortal poem, "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

The program will conclude with the Amanda-Clearcreek Concert Band in many different styles, all fitted to Christmas. Highlighting the instrumental portion are: Forehliche Weinachten, a medley of German folk carols; Toy Symphony, a work by Franz Josef Haydn written as a Christmas entertainment and featuring several toy instruments in solo capacities.

Admission is charged for the high school concert, with adult and student prices. This concert is sponsored by the Amanda-Clearcreek Band Boosters.

On Nov. 18 at 7:30, the junior high band and chorus will present a program of Christmas music in conjunction with the Stoutsville PTO Christmas program. There is no admission charge for this program to be given at the Stoutsville school.

Music directors at Amanda-Clearcreek are Paul Molyneux and Nancy Blakemore.

Long Ohio-Michigan Battle Over Territory Nears End

DETROIT (AP)—The Toledo War, a border dispute smoldering between Michigan and Ohio for more than 137 years, may come to an official end soon.

The U.S. Supreme Court started hearing arguments Monday from attorneys for the two states and the court is expected to rule within the next few weeks, possibly bringing peace to the Ohio-Michigan border at long last.

Back in April of 1835, the so-called Toledo War began when a Michigan posse attacked a survey party suspected of trying to draw a new border between the state of Ohio and Michigan Territory with Toledo on the Ohio side.

The people of Michigan claimed Congress used bad maps when it set up the state of Ohio, and that Toledo was in Michigan. For a long time, no one was quite sure.

The Toledo War ensued, involving a lot of fiery speeches and some actual shooting between people living near the border. Finally, Congress told Michigan Toledo was in Ohio, whether Michigan liked it or not, and allowed Michigan to become a full-fledged state with the Upper Peninsula as a consolation.

But that wasn't the end of the war. The new border set up ran at an angle of about 45 degrees above Toledo to the Lake Erie shore, then zipped northward bringing an extra 206 square miles of underwater land into Ohio.

Back in the 1800s, few cared about the underwater land, but recently both states have begun to suspect there may be substantial mineral deposits beneath the lake.

The dispute flared anew and worked its way through the courts until 1967 when the U.S. Supreme Court appointed a special referee to determine just who owned what.

Former Philadelphia Federal Judge Albert Maris heard testimony and reviewed documents dating back to 1815, then ruled in favor of Ohio.

Michigan appealed Maris' decision to the Supreme Court where, hopefully, a final solution will end one of the nation's longest, undeclared, civil wars.

Westfall Board Seeks Addition To Bus Fleet

Westfall Board took action to increase the school bus fleet if permission is granted by the State Department.

The board of education, meeting in regular session Monday, accepted bids from H & S Company for International chassis and Superior Body Co. for the school bus body. Members voted to purchase two buses, if an addition to the fleet is permitted, or just one if the state denies the request.

Repairs to the high school gymnasium roof were put off when contractors, Ranney and Sons, requested postponement of the work until weather conditions become more favorable. The board agreed.

Proposals are being sought for replacement of acoustic units on the gymnasium ceiling. One proposal of space tone units has been received from Myron Corning Co.

Home tutoring was approved for Timothy Bush, Kendell Pell and Cathy Lambert Eital.

A request was approved for the Darby PTG to hold a basketball game between its faculty and WTVN employees. The game has been set for Feb. 16 at the high school.

Personal leave days were authorized for three teaching employes. Leave was granted for Mrs. Mildred Davis, to attend an NFO convention; for Harvey Eader, to be married and for Mrs. Sharon Selman, closing procedures for purchase of new home.

Mrs. June Shields, Mrs. Maurine Trimble and David Quincel were appointed as a committee to investigate new social studies textbooks for adoption.

The Darby school gymnasium will be opened to fifth and sixth grade boys of the Derby area to play basketball from 6:30 until 9 p.m., January through March.

Reports were read from the Industrial Commission which had completed a standard survey of the four school buildings in the district. The survey revealed no major violations.

The Westfall board will meet for its reorganizational meeting at 2 p.m. Jan. 1.

Members of the board attending were: President James Dean, Mrs. Jeanne Lett, Dale Long, Bruce Stevenson Jr., Cooke Metzger. Also present were Superintendent Gordon Massie and Clerk Kenneth Reid.

Amanda-Clearcreek Plans Two Concerts For Holiday

Two public concerts will be performed by the Amanda-Clearcreek High School Music Department during the Christmas season.

"Christmas Old and New" is the title of the program to be presented Sunday by the high school band and chorus. The concert is slated for 3 p.m.

Its choral presentation will consist of two sections, the first depicting the religious heritage of Christmas and featuring many old favorite carols and songs in a candlelight setting.

The second section will feature secular songs of the season, including a choral setting of the Clement Clarke Moore's immortal poem, "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

The program will conclude with the Amanda-Clearcreek Concert Band in many different styles, all fitted to Christmas. Highlighting the instrumental portion are: Forehliche Weinachten, a medley of German folk carols; Toy Symphony, a work by Franz Josef Haydn written as a Christmas entertainment and featuring several toy instruments in solo capacities.

Admission is charged for the high school concert, with adult and student prices. This concert is sponsored by the Amanda-Clearcreek Band Boosters.

On Nov. 18 at 7:30, the junior high band and chorus will present a program of Christmas music in conjunction with the Stoutsville PTO Christmas program. There is no admission charge for this program to be given at the Stoutsville school.

Music directors at Amanda-Clearcreek are Paul Molyneux and Nancy Blakemore.

A Page Of Opinion

EEC's Political Decision

If the United States and Canada can keep a rein on domestic inflation, both countries stand to gain in the long run from decisions made by leaders of the European Economic Community.

Both at the top level meeting in Paris more than a month ago and at the more recent Luxembourg meeting of finance ministers, the EEC went on record as opposing tariff reductions as a means of containing the high rate of inflation prevalent in western Europe.

The reason for the move was not to help exporters from North America or anywhere else. The prevailing French view was that no concessions should be made which would help other nations before the next general round of trade negotiations.

How, then, does this help exporters on this side of the Atlantic? At first, it will not help them because they will continue to have the same difficulties surmounting EEC trade barriers.

The rate of inflation among EEC members, however, is higher than it is here — as much as twice as high in some countries. The longer Europe permits that variance to continue, the better the opportunities for industrial nations elsewhere to compete.

Lowering tariffs was one way EEC ministers could have relieved some of their inflationary pressures. Instead, they chose short-run obstinacy.

Washington Finale

Presidential inaugurations may not be what they once were, when parades lasting well into the night were a feature of the day many thousands migrated to Washington for several days of parties and balls. This may be fortunate, in view of the cost of the more streamlined efforts.

Since last April, committees have been planning the official ceremonies to take place on the third Saturday in January. On that day President Nixon will follow Vice President Agnew in formal swearing-in ceremonies for a second term in office.

The cost to the taxpayers of the occasion is figured at $1.5 million, and that is only the net figure after estimated proceeds from sales of tickets and souvenir programs are included. The inauguration platform and reviewing stands now under construction at the Capitol alone will cost $387,000.

In addition, of course, many will participate at their own expense, including contingents, some of them large, from all 50 states in the parade.

Nixon As Domestic Planner

By JEFFREY HART

We have had a great deal of speculation about the reorganization plans now in the works at Camp David, but, unfortunately, only the haziest attempts to consider them in the context of the last four years. "More of the same" is not very revealing unless you know what "the same" actually was.

Information about the bureaucracy is not the most exciting thing in the world. But when you grasp the whole design it is both coherent and impressive. Consider:

1. The Nixon Administration initiated five-year projections of Federal finances, outlining in the Budget and Economic Report its estimate of revenue and the demands upon it. This is obviously a precondition of rational planning. Administration projections envision little, if any, uncommitted funds before fiscal 1975 — but foresee then a $22 billion nest-egg. Present planning, therefore, will go forward with that relatively modest, but realistic sum in mind, and this will set discernible limits on options in health programs, environmental initiatives, and so on.

2. In its first term, the Nixon Administration greatly rationalized the administrative structure of the Executive Branch. Budget and central management functions were linked in an enlarged Budget Bureau called the Office of Management and Budget. The White House Staff was organized into functional "councils" — a

Domestic Policy Council, a Council on International and Economic Policy complemented the existing National Security Council and the Council of Economic Advisors. Though Congress ignored the Nixon proposal to consolidate Cabinet departments along similar functional lines, it is a simple inference now that Nixon plans to further this process insofar as he is able.

3. Though all of this might appear to centralize greater power in the White House, a counter-thrust was present throughout the first term. This was the meaning of Nixon's plan for revenue sharing with the states and cities and the Administration's move toward broader grants in contrast to the narrower categorical ones. Local options were to be increased. Thus, though long-range planning may indeed become more centralized, it does not follow that operational power will also be centralized.

4. It seems a good bet that high on the agenda of the revamped domestic policy organs will be the scrapping of those Great Society programs that have been expensive failures.

This longrange, careful approach has been the stylistic hallmark elsewhere as well.

The major foreign policy problem facing the Administration in 1969 was Vietnam. Nixon recognized the political necessity of withdrawing American ground troops, but did this in such a way — Vietnamization plus airpower — as to avoid a rout at the hands of the Communists, an eventuality which would have weakened U.S. credibility and prestige everywhere. But at the same time, a long-range alteration in relations with China and Russia was in the works.

Nixon has also moved as opportunity arose to reshape the Federal judiciary, bringing the Supreme Court into closer ideological accord with the Nixon middle class constituency — and thus, not least, protecting his own power base.

The current reorganization, you may be sure, will represent a further extension of these earlier directions. Nixon's so-called unpredictability is mainly a matter of surface and timing.

President Studies Natural Resources Department Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is actively considering creation of a department of natural resources by presidential executive order.

Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton, in a memorandum obtained by The Associated Press, has asked his top subordinates for recommendations aimed at solving problems involved in such an order.

Morton requested the recommendations by Dec. 15, but said he would review them before deciding whether to submit them to the White House.

Two years ago, despairing of getting major reorganization through an opposition Congress, President Nixon used an executive order to create the Environmental Protection Agency, transferring major programs from the Interior Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and other agencies.

An executive reorganization does not require positive congressional approval, but takes effect unless Congress votes to block it.

Congress has failed to act on a series of Nixon proposals to reorganize the Cabinet including establishment of the department of natural resources (DNR).

As proposed, the department would incorporate all of the present Interior Department and would absorb the Forest Service from the Agriculture Department, civil construction activities from the Army Corps of Engineers, and civilian atomic-power development from the Atomic Energy Commission.

Since the Nov. 7 election, when Nixon won by a landslide and Democrats retained control of Congress, there have been growing indications that Nixon might seek to bypass Congress and carry out some of his reorganization plans by executive order.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 12, the 347th day of 1972. There are 19 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1642, New Zealand was discovered by Dutch navigator Abel Tasman.

On this date:

In 1745, the first chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, John Jay, was born in New York City.

In 1792, in Vienna, 22-year-old Ludwig van Beethoven paid Franz Joseph Haydn 19 cents for his first music lesson.

In 1804, Spain declared war against Britain.

In 1894, Japanese troops invaded Korea.

In 1937, an international incident was touched off when Japanese planes sank the American gunboat Panay in the Yangtze River in China.

In 1953, a jet research plane was flown at more than 2½ times the speed of sound at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

Ten years go: President John F. Kennedy said he favored the idea of an emergency communications link between the White House and the Kremlin to help avert war.

Five years ago: A big airlift raised U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam to 475,000, exceeding the maximum buildup in the Korean War.

One year ago: President Nixon was in the Azores for a meeting with President George Pompidou of France on monetary and trade problems.

Today's birthdays: Frank Sinatra is 57. Actor Edward G. Robinson is 79.

Thought for today: The main difference between men and women is that men are lunatics and women are idiots. — Rebecca West, English writer, born 1892.

The property, located on State Route 104, north of Circleville, housed three families and was valued at $60,000.

A total of 32 men were recruited into Company I, 166th Infantry, of the Ohio National Guard. Captain Jack Clifton, commander of the local guard unit, said the normal compliment was 188 enlisted men and the company listed three officers and 62 men. More than half the recruits were veterans of World War II.

County Auditor Fred L. Tipton announced that dog licenses would be increased from $1 to $1.25.

Six Circleville High School boys enrolled in the home economics course in an effort to prove that boys were as good cooks as girls. School wags insisted that the boys were only trying to get a little additional food. The boys were Mack Schumm, Gerry Metzger, Tom Eveland, Howard Weaver and Don and Dave Cunningham.

William Powell, Myrna Loy and Keenan Wynn were starring in "Song of the Thin Man" at the Grand Theatre.

Speaking Of Your Health

Would you explain what is meant by the different stages of syphilis? Does the germ that causes this affect any particular part of the body?

MR. Y.N., N.M.

Dear Mr. N.: Syphilis is an infectious venereal disease caused by a germ, a spirochete known as the Treponema Pallidum. The course of this severe and complicated disease is usually divided into three stages. The first is when a chancre or ulceration appears on the skin of the genitals or on the mucous membrane lining of the mouth, lips and genitals.

Unfortunately, many of these cancers are painless and therefore are frequently overlooked and neglected. Healing may take place in a few days without any treatment, leaving little or no scar. Yet syphilis remains.

The second stage may suddenly erupt from one to three months after the disease is contracted. Now there may be a variety of symptoms which may resemble other illnesses and may not even, at first, be considered as syphilis.

Sore throats, a skin rash, low-grade fever, or general achiness may be the apparently simple symptoms that later are found to be syphilis.

The third stage of untreated syphilis may occur virtually at any time in life and produce the most bizarre and uncharacteristic symptoms. No organ in the body is exempt from the catastrophic effects of untreated and neglected syphilis. The brain, the spinal cord, the liver, the heart, the eyes, the ears, the blood vessels, the kidneys and every large and small organ can be damaged.

Children born of syphilitic parents can carry the sad stigmata of their parents' carelessness in avoiding treatment. They may be born with a variety of congenital handicaps.

Prenatal testing has largely been responsible for wiping out inherited syphilis. Routine hospital admissions insure that all adults will be tested even in the absence of any history of syphilis. The world-wide goring epidemic of syphilis will increase in geometric ratio unless intensive education will lead to prevention and earliest possible treatment.

Sir William Osler, then professor of medicine at The Johns Hopkins Hospital, once said that to know the vagaries of syphilis is to know all there is to be known about medicine. Many useful lives are destroyed by those who because of shame or stigma, refuse to admit the possibility of syphilis and the need for treatment.

Can a basketball injury cause pain in the chest? It hurts when I breathe deeply.

Mr. B. J., Nev.

Dear Mr. J.: The ribs and the muscles in between them can be injured and cause the symptoms you describe. X-rays will rule out the possibility of a rib injury or fracture. In the rest of your letter you state that you did not tell this to your coach, afraid you would be benched. This is bad judgment. All injuries must be reported.

NEW YORK (AP) — The argument for dropping wage-price controls this coming April has been undermined by the decidedly bad news that wholesale prices rose strongly in November after showing signs of settling down.

It isn't likely to be the only bad news either, because there is an inclination in expanding industrial economies for wages and prices to seek ever higher levels. It is unthinkable that they should fall.

It is so in Canada and Britain and Germany and Italy and France and Japan and every other nation dedicated to using to the limit its resources, physical and human, so as to keep the greatest number working at the highest wages.

Compared to some European nations, the United States has done a superb job of tackling the price issue. The rate of inflation has been reduced to around 3.5 per cent, while in Europe it is rising above 6 per cent.

But there are developing patterns in the United States suggesting that while it was courageous to rope the bull with wage and price controls, it will be another thing to wrestle the ensnared animal to the ground.

Wholesale price increases generally presage retail price rises sometimes by only a matter of weeks, as with food, a major factor in the big six tenths of one per cent rise in November.

Adding ammunition to the argument for a retention of controls is the fact that spending pressures remain strong throughout the economy—in business, consumer and government categories—and likely will remain that way.

Government overspending has been a major factor in the loss of economic stability that began in the mid 1960s and it remains so today. Heavy budget deficits eventually are paid for in the form of inflation.

While business capital spending may rise around 12 per cent or so in 1973, based on reliable projections it will probably be down a bit from the 16 per cent rate of 1972. However, consumer spending might be higher.

Final Moon Rocks Best?

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Rocks can't talk, of course; but, oh, what they still can tell.

Maybe, just maybe, when Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt step onto the moon tonight, they will find one that will hold the key to the history of the universe.

From dusty gray, white and black rocks gathered on five previous Apollo missions, science has learned much about the earth and the moon.

But these samples also have raised many questions, and mysteries still remain.

And now, the last Apollo gives 20th century man one more chance to find the rocks that will solve the basic puzzle of evolution.

So far, 594 pounds of lunar rock have been returned to earth by lunar missions.

In a $54 million endeavor, 800 scientists from the United States and 17 foreign countries have studied samples of those rocks to learn how the moon and earth are alike and how they're different.

Another 200 pounds will be collected by Cernan and Schmitt, a professional geologist, during their three seven-hour walks in the Taurus-Littrow area of the moon.

It could be that one of the rocks they bring back will reveal what remains to be known about the moon.

If the area in which the Apollo 17 lunar module lands is of volcanic origin, then rocks there will have been heaved up as lava from deep inside the moon.

These would indicate something about the character of the moon's interior.

A Page Of Opinion

EEC's Political Decision

If the United States and Canada can keep a rein on domestic inflation, both countries stand to gain in the long run from decisions made by leaders of the European Economic Community.

Both at the top level meeting in Paris more than a month ago and at the more recent Luxembourg meeting of finance ministers, the EEC went on record as opposing tariff reductions as a means of containing the high rate of inflation prevalent in western Europe.

The reason for the move was not to help exporters from North America or anywhere else. The prevailing French view was that no concessions should be made which would help other nations before the next general round of trade negotiations.

How, then, does this help exporters on this side of the Atlantic? At first, it will not help them because they will continue to have the same difficulties surmounting EEC trade barriers.

The rate of inflation among EEC members, however, is higher than it is here — as much as twice as high in some countries. The longer Europe permits that variance to continue, the better the opportunities for industrial nations elsewhere to compete.

Lowering tariffs was one way EEC ministers could have relieved some of their inflationary pressures. Instead, they chose short-run obstinacy.

Washington Finale

Presidential inaugurations may not be what they once were, when parades lasting well into the night were a feature of the day many thousands migrated to Washington for several days of parties and balls. This may be fortunate, in view of the cost of the more streamlined efforts. Since last April, committees have been planning the official ceremonies to take place on the third Saturday in January. On that day President Nixon will follow Vice President Agnew in formal swearing-in ceremonies for a second term in office.

The cost to the taxpayers of the occasion is figured at $1.5 million, and that is only the net figure after estimated proceeds from sales of tickets and souvenir programs are included. The inauguration platform and reviewing stands now under construction at the Capitol alone will cost $387,000.

In addition, of course, many will participate at their own expense, including contingents, some of them large, from all 50 states in the parade.

Nixon As Domestic Planner

By JEFFREY HART

We have had a great deal of speculation about the reorganization plans now in the works at Camp David, but, unfortunately, only the haziest attempts to consider them in the context of the last four years. "More of the same" is not very revealing unless you know what "the same" actually was.

Information about the bureaucracy is not the most exciting thing in the world. But when you grasp the whole design it is both coherent and impressive. Consider:

1. The Nixon Administration initiated five-year projections of Federal finances, outlining in the Budget and Economic Report its estimate of revenue and the demands upon it. This is obviously a pre-condition of rational planning. Administration projections envision little, if any, uncommitted funds before fiscal 1975 — but foresee then a $22 billion nest-egg. Present planning, therefore, will go forward with that relatively modest, but realistic sum in mind, and this will set discernible limits on options in health programs, environmental initiatives, and so on.

2. In its first term, the Nixon Administration greatly rationalized the administrative structure of the Executive Branch. Budget and central management functions were linked in an enlarged Budget Bureau called the Office of Management and Budget. The White House Staff was organized into functional "councils" — a

Domestic Policy Council, a Council on International and Economic Policy complemented the existing National Security Council and the Council of Economic Advisors. Though Congress ignored the Nixon proposal to consolidate Cabinet departments along similar functional lines, it is a simple inference now that Nixon plans to further this process insofar as he is able.

3. Though all of this might appear to centralize greater power in the White House, a counter-thrust was present throughout the first term. This was the meaning of Nixon's plan for revenue sharing with the states and cities and the Administration's move toward broader grants in contrast to the narrower categorical ones. Local options were to be increased. Thus, though long-range planning may indeed become more centralized, it does not follow that operational power will also be centralized.

4. It seems a good bet that high on the agenda of the revamped domestic policy organs will be the scrapping of those Great Society programs that have been expensive failures.

This longrange, careful approach has been the stylistic hallmark elsewhere as well.

The major foreign policy problem facing the Administration in 1969 was Vietnam. Nixon recognized the political necessity of withdrawing American ground troops, but did this in such a way — Vietnamization plus airpower — as to avoid a rout at the hands of the Communists, an eventuality which would have weakened U.S. credibility and prestige everywhere. But at the same time, a long-range alteration in relations with China and Russia was in the works.

Nixon has also moved as opportunity arose to reshape the Federal judiciary, bringing the Supreme Court into closer ideological accord with the Nixon middle class constituency — and thus, not least, protecting his own power base.

The current reorganization, you may be sure, will represent a further extension of these earlier directions. Nixon's so-called unpredictability is mainly a matter of surface and timing.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Why All That Boiling Water?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old boy and like to watch TV a lot. One night I saw a movie on TV where a baby was about to be born and the doctor asked for "lots of boiling water." This puzzled me. I ask my father what they needed boiling water for, and he said maybe they wanted to make tea or coffee.

Then I asked my mother, and she said, "The doctor probably just wanted to keep the father busy so he wouldn't be in the way." Abby, I think they didn't want to tell me the truth so they just made up those silly answers.

Will you please be honest with me and tell me why a doctor needs boiling water for the birth of a baby? This is something they don't teach you in school.

UNCERTAIN BOY

DEAR BOY: They haven't used boiling water in a birth since "The Birth of a Nation," which is a pretty old movie. But in the olden days, all surgical materials were sterilized in boiling water to kill the bacteria and prevent infection.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are making a success of our marriage, the second for both of us. My son, 14, lives with us. My husband's three boys, age 8 and 14, live with their mother, but occasionally come to visit at our house for several days.

At their house, the family lives very informally, taking their meals on trays to eat in the den while watching TV. At our house the evening meal is important as a family gathering and it is eaten at the table. When his boys are with us, they often eat quickly and leave the table before others are finished eating. With my own son, I insist that he ask permission to be excused when he leaves the table early. Then he understands that for him the meal is over, and he is not allowed to return to the table when dessert is served.

My question: Am I hopelessly old-fashioned to stress good table manners? Would I be presumptuous to teach my husband's boys the kind of manners I have taught my own son? Since they seldom eat at a table, perhaps they have not had the opportunity to learn good table manners. (I don't want to appear to be critical of their mother's way of bringing them up.)

Do you think that while the boys are living with us they should be required to observe the rules of our household?

PUZZLED STEP-MOTHER
DEAR PUZZLED: Absolutely. And no ifs, ands, or buts.

DEAR ABBY: How can I get the message across to my mother in law when she tells me one of her "stories?"

Justices Reject Kent State Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The father of a slain Kent State University student was turned down Monday by the Supreme Court as he tried to sue the State of Ohio for damages.

Arthur Krause, whose daughter, Allison, was killed in the campus disturbance May 4, 1970, was barred by the Ohio State Supreme Court last July from suing the state without the consent of the Ohio legislature.

Krause, of Pittsburgh, argued in an appeal that this violated his rights under the Federal Constitution. The high court dismissed the appeal "for want of a substantial federal question."

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — A minister's son from Granville hopes to build a Bibleland complex here "to teach as accurately as possible the history of the Judeo-Christian religion."

Earl R. Voorhies expects his $30 million project to be completed in 1976 and include facsimiles of King Solomon's Temple, Bethlehem and numerous other historical places.

Voorhies says "the spiritual values radiating from such a center will help men live together" but admits he's building the complex as "a business proposition."

The first building, Voorhies said, will be a wax museum with displays of 20 major events from the Old and New Testaments. Phase II will recreate Biblical towns and include a drama theater to reenact the life of Jesus. And children will be able to take donkey rides.

Voorhies said he got the idea after reading about the Oberammergau Passion Play in Germany and similar plays in the Black Hills of South Dakota and Arkansas.

"Only 12 million to 15 million people live within 500 miles of Arkansas and the Black Hills," said Voorhies. "and more people are turned away than get to see the plays."

"Here we have 135 million people."

8 Persons Die In Gas Explosion

CLINTON, Mo. (AP) — Investigators blame accumulation of natural gas for an explosion and fire that killed eight persons and destroyed a half-block section of the Clinton town square.

Five of the victims were would-be rescuers attempting to free a mother and daughter trapped in one of the four buildings reduced to rubble by the initial blast Saturday night.

Seven other persons were injured and four remained hospitalized Sunday.

There was no immediate estimate of the damage, but it was expected to total at least $250,000.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Why All That Boiling Water?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old boy and like to watch TV a lot. One night I saw a movie on TV where a baby was about to be born and the doctor asked for "lots of boiling water." This puzzled me. I ask my father what they needed boiling water for, and he said maybe they wanted to make tea or coffee.

Then I asked my mother, and she said, "The doctor probably just wanted to keep the father busy so he wouldn't be in the way." Abby, I think they didn't want to tell me the truth so they just made up those silly answers.

Will you please be honest with me and tell me why a doctor needs boiling water for the birth of a baby? This is something they don't teach you in school.

UNCERTAIN BOY

DEAR BOY: They haven't used boiling water in a birth since "The Birth of a Nation," which is a pretty old movie. But in the olden days, all surgical materials were sterilized in boiling water to kill the bacteria and prevent infection.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are making a success of our marriage, the second for both of us. My son, 14, lives with us. My husband's three boys, age 8 and 14, live with their mother, but occasionally come to visit at our house for several days.

At their house, the family lives very informally, taking their meals on trays to eat in the den while watching TV. At our house the evening meal is important as a family gathering and it is eaten at the table. When his boys are with us, they often eat quickly and leave the table before others are finished eating. With my own son, I insist that he ask permission to be excused when he leaves the table early. Then he understands that for him the meal is over, and he is not allowed to return to the table when dessert is served.

My question: Am I hopelessly old-fashioned to stress good table manners? Would I be presumptuous to teach my husband's boys the kind of manners I have taught my own son? Since they seldom eat at a table, perhaps they have not had the opportunity to learn good table manners. (I don't want to appear to be critical of their mother's way of bringing them up.)

Do you think that while the boys are living with us they should be required to observe the rules of our household?

PUZZLED STEP-MOTHER

DEAR PUZZLED: Absolutely. And no ifs, ands, or buts.

DEAR ABBY: How can I get the message across to my mother in law when she tells me one of her "stories"

Justices Reject Kent State Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The father of a slain Kent State University student was turned down Monday by the Supreme Court as he tried to sue the State of Ohio for damages.

Arthur Krause, whose daughter, Allison, was killed in the campus disturbance May 4, 1970, was barred by the Ohio State Supreme Court last July from suing the state without the consent of the Ohio legislature.

Krause, of Pittsburgh, argued in an appeal that this violated his rights under the Federal Constitution. The high court dismissed the appeal "for want of a substantial federal question."

ANYONE CAN FIT YOUR BOWLING BALL, RIGHT?

Sorry, that's not right.

It takes training and experience to fit your bowling ball properly. Larry Dietrich has that training and experience. Larry is proud of the way he fits and drills your bowling ball — because Larry knows he'll be seeing you regularly.

Larry knows about size of finger holes. Larry knows about proper pitch. Larry knows about proper ball weight for you.

Let Larry put all this knowledge to work for you in fitting and drilling a bowling ball that is truly yours.

Treat yourself this Christmas to a new bowling ball and let Larry fit you. Just watch those scores of yours mount — and watch Larry, he'll be cheering for you.

Delta Kappa Gamma Society Holds Annual Holiday Event

Beta Rho Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society held its December meeting Wednesday evening following a holiday dinner at the Fox Farm Inn. Ruth Tootle, music chairman, led members in singing Christmas carols and read articles telling the origin of some of the often sung carols.

The birthday song was sung to Marcella Kern and a special guest, Miss LeAnn Ogle, daughter of Pat Ogle.

Phoebe Engle, president, expressed appreciation to Drama Scott, Amy Miga, Marilyn Scranton, Bernice Hulse, Florence McGhee and Betty Lovensheimer for favors and table decorations which added a festive touch to the evening.

Roll call was responded to by making a donation to the World Fellowship Fund and stating to which country they would prefer the money to go. The money is used by the society to bring foreign students in the field of education to the United States for further study.

Lucille Scott, membership chairman, said that membership applications are now due and will be reviewed at the executive meeting in January.

Ruth Neff, scholarship chairman, encouraged members considering further graduate study to make application for one of the four available scholarships.

A plan was formulated where by all members could have the opportunity to read "Our Heritage."

Other members attending the Christmas dinner were: Florence Baker, Rita Ball, Ann Lee Brevard, Kathleen Bush, Nancy Call, Sally Case, Helen Dowler, Grace Dresbach, Eloise Dunkel, Mary Alice Greenwood.

NEW YORK (AP) — John Kennedy barking vocal exercises in the bathtub, seeking companionship on lonely evenings in the White House, pausing to write a note of encouragement to the mother of a badly burned child on the day his infant son died — these are the images of the late president in a new book written by two close friends.

David F. Powers and Kenneth P. O'Donnell, beer-drinking political buddies of long standing and White House confidants of John F. Kennedy, spent eight months after his assassination recording on tape their memories of Kennedy. Those tapes are now a book, "Johnny, We Hardly Knew Ye," an affectionate, personal remembrance produced with the help of writer Joe McCarthy. O'Donnell reports one conversation, occasioned by the doubts he voiced concerning Kennedy's choice of Lyndon B. Johnson as his running mate in 1960. "He said something to me that I am always going to remember: 'Get one thing clear, Kenny, I'm 43 years old, and I'm the healthiest candidate for president in the country, and I'm not going to die in office.'" During the 1960 presidential campaign, the authors report, Kennedy did vocal exercises to preserve his voice. One of those exercises called for him to bark like a dog for 30 minutes every morning. Kennedy took to doing this in the bathtub. "The first time that we heard the strange animal sounds coming from the bathroom, Dave (Powers) opened the door to see what was happening. Kennedy looked at him from the tub, embarrassed. 'I heard a funny noise,' Dave said, 'and I thought there was a seal in the tub.' For the next few weeks we had to make up excuses when an early morning visitor at our hotel room asked what was going on in the bathroom." What the authors add to the already considerable Kennedy literature is a personal view only close pals could have. He cursed occasionally, liked sports, was entranced by celebrities, and remembered others even at moments of personal travail. When Patrick Bouvier Kennedy was born prematurely in August 1963, Kennedy stayed at the Boston hospital where the baby was taken. Awakened early one morning because the baby's condition was worse, Kennedy, while waiting for an elevator, saw a child who had been severely burned. He asked the mother's name, Powers said, then wrote a note of sympathy and encouragement to her. Two hours later, the Kennedy baby died. Powers was with the president. "He went upstairs to the room where he had been sleeping, sat on the bed and wept."

Then he would get into the bed, and say to Dave, 'Good night, pal, will you please put out the light?'" O'Donnell, 48, has been part of the Kennedy entourage since Kennedy's first U.S. Senate race in 1952. He was a trusted political aide during Kennedy's years in the Senate and became his appointment secretary and special assistant in the White House. Power and O'Donnell were with Kennedy when he traveled through Ireland in the summer of 1963, four months before he died. On the last day, leaving Shannon Airport, they relate, someone held aloft a sign, scrawled with the title of an old Irish song: "Johnny, I Hardly Knew Ye."

TV Board Decides On New Clerk; Accepts Bid For Stationwagon

Primary item of business before the Teays Valley Board Monday was the employment of a new clerk-treasurer.

Five finalists were interviewed for the position being vacated in January by Mrs. Esther Duvall and the board plans to offer a contract to one beginning her employment at the 1973 reorganization meeting. The board's selection will be announced Friday.

A bid for the 1972 station wagon was accepted from Mrs. Harriett Morris for $3,275. Bids received at the November meeting were all refused because the board felt them to be too low.

education teacher, offered her resignation to the board effective Dec. 20. Taking over the post will be Mrs. Ramona Welch who will begin her employment when school resumes Jan. 2.

Board approval was given to have a basketball game at Olentangy on Dec. 27 as scheduled, but the members announced that in the future, determination of game dates must be made by both the principal and athletic director, and the board would stand firm to its policy to avoid Wednesday evening activities in the future.

Votes of approval were given to continue membership in the Ohio School Boards Association in 1973 and to set the pay date as Dec. 20 for non-certified personnel this month.

Principal Richard Snider was authorized to attend the North Central Accreditation Assn. annual meeting in Chicago March 25-28.

The board's reorganization meeting was set at 8 p.m. Jan. 3 rather than New Years Day.

More discussion was held on possible timing and the form of a bond issue to be presented to district voters. If the bond issue is to appear on the May ballot, the board must file a paper stating their intent by Jan. 18. The board's January regular meeting will probably be held the second or third Monday in order to meet the deadline.

Municipal Court Totals Released

Circleville Municipal Court collected $13,268.75 in fines, costs and bond forfeitures during the month of November.

The city of Circleville will receive $7,386.65 of the total, $636 from fines and forfeitures, $3,989.60 from all court costs, and $2,761.05 from a percentage of Highway Patrol bonds and fines.

Pickaway County will receive $1,388.81 of the total and the treasurer of the state will receive $2,761.

There were 464 criminal cases filed during November and 501 completed. There were 17 civil cases filed and 11 completed. And there were 49 small claims cases filed and 46 completed.

Pay Boosts For Officials Are Frozen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee chairman predicts that President Nixon's one-year pay-raise delay for congressmen and other top federal officials will guarantee a still-longer freeze on those salaries.

Chairman Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., of the House compensation subcommittee, said Congress likely would have vetoed the scheduled raise early next year for itself and other officials without Nixon's action "in light of the wage-price freeze and the mood of the country."

Udall said he believes Nixon's announcement Monday that he will delay the raise to about March 1974 will ensure the veto because the pay hikes would come during congressional election campaigns.

"It will have the practical effect of freezing salaries of 2,000 top executives for the next four years," Udall said in an interview.

Chairman Quentin N. Burdick, D-N.D., of the Senate compensation subcommittee, was quoted by his office as approving the President's action because the senator also opposes a pay raise next year.

The raise for congressmen, federal judges and top administration officials was scheduled next year under a system by which a special commission recommends raises for them to the president every four years.

The president then decides how much the raises will be, subject to veto by either the House or Senate within 30 days of his notice.

Englishman Swims Alcatraz Waters

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A skinny Englishman who stays out late and doesn't watch his diet has swum the cold and treacherous mile from Alcatraz Island to San Francisco.

Kenneth F. Crutchlow, 28, said he didn't train, hadn't swam a stroke in three months, stays out late and "I drink and I eat everything I want. I consider myself a regular type guy, so this proves if you want to do something all you need is mental desire."

Crutchlow, 6 feet tall and weighing 154, braved vicious currents, 50-degree water and 38-degree air temperatures Sunday for the swim across the stretch that once helped keep some of history's toughest criminals on the former prison island.

Court To Decide On Political Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday agreed to decide whether the federal government and the states may keep their employees out of political campaigns.

The issue will be decided in two cases. One, from the District of Columbia, involves the 1939 Hatch Act affecting 5.5 million federal and state workers. The other, from Oklahoma, involves a comparable state law.

The justices will hear arguments on the cases early next spring and come to a final decision by the term ends in June.

Powers, now 60 and administrative officer of the Kennedy Memorial Library, met Kennedy when Kennedy first ran for public office in a 1946 congressional contest. Although he never held an official title, Powers was a man Kennedy liked to have near him. He swam with Kennedy almost daily in the White House pool and stayed with the president on evenings when Jacqueline Kennedy was away from the White House.

"Dave was accustomed to being summoned for night duty at the White House when Jackie was absent," the book relates. "He called himself 'John's other wife.' The president hated to be alone in the evening."

"Around 11 o'clock, the president would get undressed and slip into the short-length Brooks Bros. sleeping jacket that he wore in preference to pajamas. Dave would watch him kneel beside his bed and say his prayers."

2 Appointed By Lancione

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The new speaker in the next Ohio House Friday appointed a $21,507-a-year executive secretary and a $300-a-month chaplain.

John V. McCarthy of Youngstown, a current representative who did not seek reelection to his House seat, will become executive secretary, Speaker-Designate A. G. Lancione said.

The post is one of the most important non-elective patronage jobs in the House. McCarthy will direct the office staffs and be responsible for the hiring and firing of employees.

McCarthy, finishing his second term as a legislator, ran unsuccessfully for Mahoning County treasurer in the Democratic primary last May. He is a former Youngstown city councilman.

The new chaplain will be the Rev. Kenneth Grims, principal of Watterson High School. The chaplain is paid $300 a month while the House is in session. He opens each session with a prayer.

Soviet-Chinese Conflict Reported

MOSCOW (AP) — A band of armed Chinese entered Soviet Kazakhstan from Sinkiang Province last month to attack Soviet shepherds, killed five Russian soldiers and an unknown number of shepherds and escaped across the border with a large number of sheep, a secret government report says.

The report, according to Western diplomatic sources, said that one Chinese was captured and that Peking rejected a Kremlin protest. The Chinese government said the marauders were bandits and no concern of the Chinese government.

It was the first report of bloodshed on the Chinese-Soviet frontier since tank and artillery battles in 1969. The Soviet and Chinese governments have charged in the past that border raids have been officially instigated. The two nations have been arguing for more than 10 years over 580,000 square miles of territory in Siberia and the Soviet Far East. Talks were begun after the 1969 battles but so far have achieved little success.

Lockbourne Lands Available For Lease

Approximately 1,590 acres of land, of which 793 acres are cropland and 797 acres require maintenance mowing, located at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Columbus, Ohio, are being offered for agricultural lease by the Baltimore District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Arrangements to inspect the property can be made with the Post Engineer, Lockbourne Air Force Base, telephone area code 614, 492-4149.

Bids will be received until 2 p.m., December 15, by the District Engineer, Baltimore District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, ATTN: NABRE-M, P. O. Box 1715, Baltimore, Md. 21203, at which time they will be opened.

Jimmy Durante Stay In Hospital Extended

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Entertainer Jimmy Durante probably will remain in a hospital here for at least another week, physicians say.

Durante, 79, is making satisfactory recovery from a severe concussion he suffered when he fell in the bathroom of his home last Monday and apparently struck the right side of his head on a wash basin, a hospital spokesman said over the weekend.

auto crashes that each year strew U.S. highways with metal, money and man.

The accident happened to Manuel and Winona Pike, both 71, of North Lake, Mich. They left Lima Memorial Hospital last week after nearly two months of nursing and suffering.

The Pikes headed for their Youngstown, Ariz., winter home minus their 14-foot travel trailer, and many possessions— but with each other.

"It's our best Christmas present," said Mrs. Pike.

She managed a warm smile as she boarded a plane, despite a four-poster cervical brace shrouding her head, a painful reminder of a broken neck.

Mrs. Pike will have to wear the brace a minimum of four months. There is no guarantee that at her age her neck ever will be stable.

Her husband of 50 years has recovered from a concussion and two sprained ankles. "They're still swollen and Manuel has to keep off his feet as much as possible," Mrs. Pike said.

"We'll make it," she said. "Nothing is impossible. After all, I had four children in five years and I replanted a whole hedge once, didn't like where Manuel had put it."

So, this was an accident with a happy ending. Thousands of other accidents don't come out with a Hollywood ending.

Pike was released from the hospital Oct. 19, two days after the accident about four miles south of Lima on Interstate 75.

Every day during his wife's hospitalization, Pike arrived at Memorial at 6:30 a.m. to feed her, staying on until 10:30 p.m. Until last week she was under a 15-pound neck traction after the original five days of intensive care.

"It's so wonderful to see people's faces again. All I've had to look at has been the ceiling," Mrs. Pike explained. "I'm also learning how to walk again."

As fate sometimes decrees, the Pikes never had traveled the Ohio interstate in the nine years of wintering in Arizona. "We stopped to visit my 77-year-old sister in Toledo and that's how we happened on 75," Mrs. Pike said.

Her husband recalled, "It was a beautiful, sunny day. A lady driver passed us and turned in too quick, sideswiping our fender. They pulled over to the shoulder of the highway and we did the same, completely off the road. In getting out of the car Winona slammed the door on her left thumb and it started bleeding."

When Pike found the auto damage was but a fender scratch he told the lady and man with her to go on.

"They didn't," he said, "but I had to take care of my wife's finger. We got into the trailer and a second later I heard this terrific explosion," Pike said.

"No, Manuel," his wife interrupted, "it was a terrific crash. That's all we remembered for a couple of minutes. When I awakened, everything in the trailer was on top of us. Manuel was yelling to come over and see what was wrong with his head. I couldn't. I was holding my neck."

She continued, "There was such a nice young man—we never learned his name—who cautioned me, 'Don't move.' I was so cold and he found a down comforter and covered me."

Her husband added, "And he put me in the seat of my car but first laid a blanket down so the blood wouldn't run on the upholstery."

"The highway patrolman assured me he would stay with the car and trailer and he did," Pike noted. "When I was able to check, I found that the driver of the wrecker from Al's Garage had gathered everything he could find. He apologized for losing several cards from a deck we had in the trailer."

Mrs. Pike is hopeful insurance will pay damages and hospital costs. "I guess the suffering we should forget," she said.

Pike found a room just two doors from the hospital.

One of her daughters in Arizona, flew here twice while sons in Michigan and other relatives have made visits. "My other daughter in Arizona has sent me a red carnation each day," Winona said.

"If you look at it one way," Pike philosophized, "everyone should have a stay in the hospital like I've had to watch the amazing way the nurses, doctors and staff work and how they are able to keep so many really sick people alive."

His wife said, "I'm impressed with

Couple Finds Joyous Yule In Leaving Hospital

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — This is the story of an accident—one of the 16.5 million

2 Appointed By Lancione

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The new speaker in the next Ohio House Friday appointed a $21,507-a-year executive secretary and a $300-a-month chaplain.

John V. McCarthy of Youngstown, a current representative who did not seek reelection to his House seat, will become executive secretary, Speaker-Designate A. G. Lancione said.

The post is one of the most important non-elective patronage jobs in the House. McCarthy will direct the office staffs and be responsible for the hiring and firing of employees.

McCarthy, finishing his second term as a legislator, ran unsuccessfully for Mahoning County treasurer in the Democratic primary last May. He is a former Youngstown city councilman.

The new chaplain will be the Rev. Kenneth Grims, principal of Watterson High School. The chaplain is paid $300 a month while the House is in session. He opens each session with a prayer.

Soviet-Chinese Conflict Reported

MOSCOW (AP) — A band of armed Chinese entered Soviet Kazakhstan from Sinkiang Province last month to attack Soviet shepherds, killed five Russian soldiers and an unknown number of shepherds and escaped across the border with a large number of sheep, a secret government report says.

The report, according to Western diplomatic sources, said that one Chinese was captured and that Peking rejected a Kremlin protest. The Chinese government said the marauders were bandits and no concern of the Chinese government.

It was the first report of bloodshed on the Chinese-Soviet frontier since tank and artillery battles in 1969. The Soviet and Chinese governments have charged in the past that border raids have been officially instigated. The two nations have been arguing for more than 10 years over 580,000 square miles of territory in Siberia and the Soviet Far East. Talks were begun after the 1969 battles but so far have achieved little success.

Lockbourne Lands Available For Lease

Approximately 1,590 acres of land, of which 793 acres are cropland and 797 acres require maintenance mowing, located at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Columbus, Ohio, are being offered for agricultural lease by the Baltimore District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Arrangements to inspect the property can be made with the Post Engineer, Lockbourne Air Force Base, telephone area code 614, 492-4149.

Bids will be received until 2 p.m., December 15, by the District Engineer, Baltimore District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, ATTN: NABRE-M, P. O. Box 1715, Baltimore, Md. 21203, at which time they will be opened.

Jimmy Durante Stay In Hospital Extended

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Entertainer Jimmy Durante probably will remain in a hospital here for at least another week, physicians say.

Durante, 79, is making satisfactory recovery from a severe concussion he suffered when he fell in the bathroom of his home last Monday and apparently struck the right side of his head on a wash basin, a hospital spokesman said over the weekend.

auto crashes that each year strew U.S. highways with metal, money and man.

The accident happened to Manuel and Winona Pike, both 71, of North Lake, Mich. They left Lima Memorial Hospital last week after nearly two months of nursing and suffering.

The Pikes headed for their Youngstown, Ariz., winter home minus their 14-foot travel trailer, and many possessions—but with each other.

"It's our best Christmas present," said Mrs. Pike.

She managed a warm smile as she boarded a plane, despite a four-poster cervical brace shrouding her head, a painful reminder of a broken neck.

Mrs. Pike will have to wear the brace a minimum of four months. There is no guarantee that at her age her neck ever will be stable.

Her husband of 50 years has recovered from a concussion and two sprained ankles. "They're still swollen and Manuel has to keep off his feet as much as possible," Mrs. Pike said.

"We'll make it," she said. "Nothing is impossible. After all, I had four children in five years and I replanted a whole hedge once, didn't like where Manuel had put it."

So, this was an accident with a happy ending. Thousands of other accidents don't come out with a Hollywood ending.

Pike was released from the hospital Oct. 19, two days after the accident about four miles south of Lima on Interstate 75.

Santa and the ICE KING

by Lucrece Beale

SYNOPSIS: Surviving a fierce storm on the ice sea, Oonik and Keotuk, his faithful dog, have finally reached Santa Land, where they hope to enlist Santa's help in getting the Ice King to end the terrible continuous winter.

CHAPTER FIVE

OONIK IN SANTA LAND

Oonik hurried over the hill and into the valley where he had seen smoke trailing into the sky.

Sure enough the smoke was coming from a little red chimney on top of a little red house.

"It's Santa's house! I know it is!" exclaimed Oonik joyfully and, with Keotuk at his heels, he rushed up to the porch.

Tap, tap! He knocked eagerly at the door.

There was no answer.

Bang, bang! he pounded.

Still no answer.

Oonik looked around. Now he saw another house nearly buried under the ice and snow. It was a long low building. Although it had a chimney, there was no smoke coming from it.

"Land sakes!" cried Mrs. Santa Claus. "Who are you?"

Further away he saw a large red barn but still no sign of any living creature.

Keotuk sniffed at the door of the little red house. He whimpered. Puzzled, Oonik put his hand on the knob and opened the door.

"Hello!" he called. "May I come in?"

There was no answer. Holding his breath, Oonik tiptoed in. He found himself in a room with four square walls not at all like the round snow walls he was used to at home.

There was a little fire burning in the fireplace. Two large empty chairs sat before the fire. There was a desk in the corner with papers and letters strewn over its top.

"Oh, my!" breathed Oonik gazing around admiringly.

In all his life he had never been in any house except an igloo or tent. He had never seen a fireplace or a chair or a desk! He felt that he had walked into a place such as he had heard kings lived in in faraway places.

He was about to lower himself into one of the chairs when suddenly he heard a groan. He leaped up. The groan came again. It was from over his head! Astonished, he realized there was another room on top of the one he was in. He found some stairs and, trembling, he tiptoed up to the second floor.

He found himself in a bedroom and in the bedroom was a bed and in the bed there was someone. At least Oonik thought there was someone in the bed but it was hard to be sure because there were so many covers on it. There were quilts and comforters and blankets and even an enormous polar bear rug on top of whoever was in the bed.

Oonik cleared his throat. "I beg your pardon," he said.

The great pile of covers heaved upward and the astonished face of Mrs. Santa Claus appeared.

"Land sakes!" she cried. "Who are you?"

"I am an Eskimo boy," said Oonik nervously. "I have come from across the sea to ask Santa to save me and my people from the Ice King's anger. You see, it is summer but still summer has not come."

"Oh, I know! Don't tell me!" said Mrs. Claus and she threw herself back into the covers with another groan.

"We too have been waiting all these months for summer which has not come. And now I have terrible rheumatism which I should only have in winter months."

We're planning for a brighter tomorrow. Don't waste gas today.

Columbia Gas is striving to assure that clean-burning natural gas will be available for home, business and industry for years to come. We're reaching out for vast new sources of supply—from Alaska, from under the sea and overseas, from deep under the green hills of Appalachia . . . even from coal.

Achieving these goals is still dependent upon government cooperation.

Our plans for the future are sound. But, right now, natural gas is in short supply.

More clean-burning gas is needed to sustain our community's economic and environmental well-being. There are several things you can do right in your own home to help ease the shortage of valuable natural gas.

Easy things. Like turning your thermostat down to a comfortable temperature and not changing it.

Have a heating dealer check your furnace to make sure it is operating efficiently.

Keep your furnace filters clean. Even on the coldest winter day, the sun will help heat your home. Open the drapes and let the sun shine in.

At night, or on cloudy days, it's smart to close your drapes to help keep the warm in.

Write to Columbia Gas for a free booklet, "30 Ways to Save."

Observe these suggestions and you'll use less gas.

Help make tomorrow brighter.

Gas is precious, pure energy . . . use it wisely.

"And the snow is so high and the ice so thick we cannot get wood for the fires so the fairies have no fire in the workshops and they are too cold to work. We ourselves are using the dining room chairs for firewood but even those won't last much longer."

"And the ice is so thick the reindeer have not been able to dig moss to eat and they are starving."

"Oh, don't tell me about the Ice King's anger. He's gone plumb off his head, I say, and—"

"Where is Santa Claus?" interrupted Oonik uneasily.

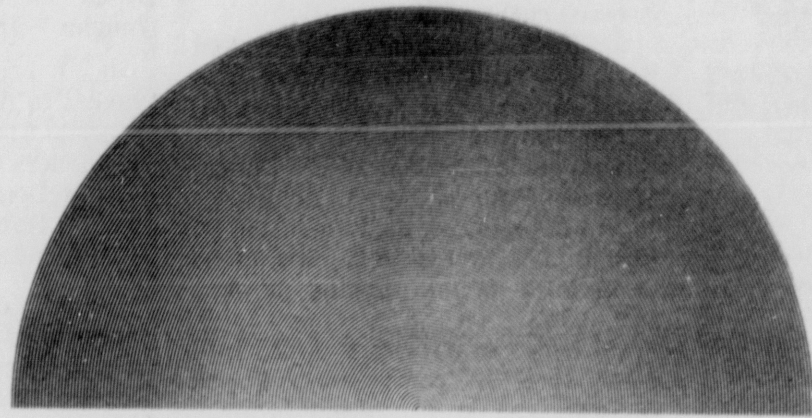

"In the barn, I expect, nursing the reindeer. Santa says unless something happens soon there's just not going to be any Christmas any more."

Oonik slipped from the room. He ran down the stairs and out of the house.

"Oh, Keotuk," he exclaimed to his dog waiting at the door. "It's much worse than I knew! Why, even Santa doesn't know what to do!"

UCLA Unanimous No. 1 Choice In Basketball Poll

—American Citizens Face Income Tax.

—Sun Rises In East.

—UCLA Leads Associated Press College Basketball Poll.

Those headlines carry almost equal surprise value as the incredible, unbeaten, unthreatened Bruins again are unanimously No. 1 today among major undergraduate roundballers.

Florida State and Maryland remained UCLA's distant 2-3 challengers while Marquette jumped one notch to fourth, exchanging places with Big Ten powerhouse Minnesota.

North Carolina State and Long Beach State remained sixth and seventh, respectively. Southwestern Louisiana rose from 10th to eighth, Pennsylvania stayed ninth and Oral Roberts moved up two places to No. 10.

UCLA was idle last week and Coach John Wooden's West Coast wonders have a 3-0 record along with Florida State, Maryland, Marquette and Minnesota.

Florida State whipped Eastern Kentucky 87-70 and Biscayne 97-62 in action last week. Maryland beat Canisius 107-80 in its only game.

Marquette had an impressive week, crunching 14th-ranked Tennessee 56-30 and edging No. 11 Memphis State 72-69. Minnesota dropped one place despite slamming Wisconsin-Milwaukee 79-60.

North Carolina State continued to be the nation's hottest scoring club, slaughtering Georgia Southern 144-100 and south Florida 125-88.

Bobby Tolan Wins 1972 Hutch Award

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — One of sport's most remarkable comebacks has earned the 1972 Hutch Award for Cincinnati Reds outfielder Bobby Tolan.

The 27-year-old speedster overcame two torn Achilles tendon operations in 1971 to hit .283 and steal 42 bases for the National League pennant winners this season.

The award is named in honor of Fred Hutchinson, former major league pitcher and manager who died of cancer in November 1964. It goes to a player annually who best exemplifies Hutchinson's fighting spirit.

An organization of major league broadcasters and sports writers makes the selection. Dayton, Ohio, Journal Herald Sports Editor Ritter Collett, secretary-treasurer of the sponsoring group, said Tolan was a runaway winner.

Next in line in the 1972 voting, in order, were Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs, Gaylord Perry of the Cleveland Indians, Ron Santo of the Cubs and Carlos May of the Chicago White Sox.

Previous winners were Mickey Mantle, Sandy Koufax, Carl Yastrzemski, Al Kaline, Pete Rose, Tony Conigliaro and Joe Torre.

Tolan, who helped the Reds win the 1970 NL flag, missed the entire 1971 season with the ankle injuries that required surgery in January and May of 1971.

and then held on for a 78-70 college basketball victory Monday night.

"You aren't going to add to a 20-point halftime lead against a great team like Kentucky," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith.

102-66 and Puget Sound 102-70.

Kentucky, eighth ranked last week, took a double defeat dose in a 79-66 battle with Iowa and a 64-58 game against Indiana and the Wildcats dropped out of sight.

Southwestern Louisiana, 4-0, scored its most recent triumphs over Pan American 111-70, St. Joseph's, Pa., 84-74 and Marshall 98-84.

Ninth-ranked Penn beat The Citadel 57-34 and Navy 58-39.

Oral Roberts, leaping into the top 10, slammed Wisconsin 90-76, and Idaho State 95-82 before nipping Murray State 79-78.

Bengals Loss To Cleveland Like Rerun To Paul Brown

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— For Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown, his team's 27-24 loss to Cleveland Saturday bore all too much of a resemblance to a defeat at the hands of the Browns here last year.

"It looked like a rerun of last year with fumbles, running on punt formation, things like that," Brown said Monday after watching films of the game. "It was the same people doing the same things."

"We moved the ball, we played well defensively, and it's a shame when so many do so well that just a few make those devastating mistakes."

The Bengals dropped a 31-27 decision to the Browns last year. After having led much of the way, the Bengals blew the game in the final period.

Brown said that "the crux of the game was that we fumbled the ball five times and lost it twice, both times to set them up for easy touchdowns."

Bengals miscues paved the way for four of Cleveland's five scores.

Royce Berry, defensive captain for the Bengals, said he thinks the Browns are "great opportunists." While insisting the Browns were "lucky," he pointed out that good teams have a habit of getting breaks.

Berry had a great deal of praise for Cleveland quarterback Mike Phipps

"We are very happy to have gotten that win."

Kentucky's Ronnie Lyons, who didn't start due to a kidney infection and a case of anemia, scored 15 points in the second half and led a tenacious comeback effort that trimmed North Carolina's lead to 71-65 with four minutes left. Bobby Jones of the Tar Heels then tossed in two straight baskets to preserve the victory.

North Carolina, ranked No. 11 nationally, was led by George Karl's 22 points while Jones added 15. Kevin Grevey paced unranked Kentucky, which last week was tabbed eighth, with 19 points.

Jimmy Baker tossed in 40 points as Nevada-Las Vegas erased a halftime deficit and upset 10th-ranked Oral Roberts 86-80. Bob Florence added 22 points for Las Vegas and David Vaughn led Oral Roberts with 18.

No. 7 Long Beach State put six players in double figures and ripped Colorado 93-69. Roscoe Pondexter led the winners with 20 points followed by Glen McDonald with 17 and Olympic star Ed Ratleff with 16. Dave Logan led Colorado with 19.

Junior Lee Harris pumped in a career-high 30 points as Nebraska defeated Texas Christian 72-58. Harris, whose 13 field goals were one short of a Nebraska record, led the Huskers to a 38-24 halftime lead.

Dan Murphy sank two free throws with three seconds remaining and lifted Cincinnati to a 76-74 triumph over Arizona State.

Freshman Leon Douglas made his varsity debut by scoring 18 points and snaring 10 rebounds in guiding Alabama to an 89-73 victory over Georgia Tech. Wendell Hudson also scored 18 for Alabama.

Meet The Braves

Rick Jones, Stew Jones and Scott Bower are three members of the Logan Elm High School basketball team. Rick Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones of Laurelville. He is a senior. Cincy Edges Arizona State For 76-74 Basketball Win

Junior guard Dan Murphy scored just six points, but it was enough to give Cincinnati a 76-74 college basketball victory over a hot-shooting Arizona State in Cincinnati Monday night.

Murphy sank two clutch free throws with three seconds to go to provide the Cincinnati victory margin. The play came after Greg Jurcisin stole an Arizona State pass with six seconds remaining and passed up court to Murphy who was fouled by Mike Contreras.

In other Ohio College basketball action, Xavier traveled to Lawrence, Kan., only to be chopped down by Kansas 61-54.

Xavier was 10 points behind with less than six minutes remaining, but whittled the Kansas lead to 55-50 with 2:57 left. Two clutch baskets by Rick Suttle, who finished with a game high 26 points, gave the Jayhawks the margin they needed, however.

The victory gave Kansas a 2-3 record, while Xavier dropped to 1-3.

In addition to Murphy's two free throws that provided Cincinnati's winning margin, he also scored a 20-foot jump shot with 49 seconds remaining to tie the game at 73-73.

Otterbein broke a 52-52 tie midway in the second half of its home contest and went on to take a close 75-73 victory from David Lipscomb College of Tennessee.

Freshman guard David Bromley led Otterbein, now 4-2, with 17 points but Lipscomb's 6-7 junior center, Calvin Bailey, was the game's best producer with 25 points.

In other action Denison came on strong in the second half to defeat Thiel, Pa., 78-69, while Mt. Union took an easy 69-55 victory from Grove City.

Bengals Loss To Cleveland Like Rerun To Paul Brown

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — For Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown, his team's 27-24 loss to Cleveland Saturday bore all too much of a resemblance to a defeat at the hands of the Browns here last year.

"It looked like a rerun of last year with fumbles, running on punt formation, things like that," Brown said Monday after watching films of the game. "It was the same people doing the same things."

"We moved the ball, we played well defensively, and it's a shame when so many do so well that just a few make those devastating mistakes."

The Bengals dropped a 31-27 decision to the Browns last year. After having led much of the way, the Bengals blew the game in the final period.

Brown said that "the crux of the game was that we fumbled the ball five times and lost it twice, both times to set them up for easy touchdowns."

Bengals miscues paved the way for four of Cleveland's five scores.

Royce Berry, defensive captain for the Bengals, said he thinks the Browns are "great opportunists." While insisting the Browns were "lucky," he pointed out that good teams have a habit of getting breaks.

Berry had a great deal of praise for Cleveland quarterback Mike Phipps who passed for touchdowns to Frank Pitts and Fair Hooker. Both touchdowns came as the Bengals put an exceptionally heavy rush on the young passer.

"I'd say it was impossible for him to get those passes off, much less complete them," Berry said.

Berry recalled that tackle Ron Carpenter slammed into Phipps just as he released the ball to Pitts.

Pitts caught the ball on the 30-yard line, scrambled out of a crowd of Bengals, and completed the 50-yard scoring play.

"There's no way he could've gotten the ball away and there's no way he could've been accurate," Berry said, despite the outcome.

Bill Walsh, Bengals coach for quarterbacks and receivers, said in reliving the game, "I'm crushed. I don't think I've ever been as sick in my life."

But when asked about how the Bengals will feel playing their last game against Houston since they—Bengals—have been eliminated from a playoff spot, Walsh said, "We want a winning season. We've put a lot of effort into this, and we deserve a winning season. If we have one, we'll feel like we've made progress."

The Bengals stand 7-6.

Jets Lose; Namath Shines

OAKLAND (AP) — Even in defeat, New York Jets' quarterback Joe Namath has a knack for upstaging other football players.

"Joe was on target all night," Jets' Coach Weeb Ewbank said Monday night after Namath passed for 403 yards in a 24-16 loss to the Oakland Raiders that killed the Jets' hopes of making the National Football League playoffs.

"He has these kind of games," admitted Raiders Coach John Madden, "but I feel our guy was pretty good too."

Oakland quarterback Daryle

Lamonica, throwing a lot less than Namath, passed for 202 yards and two touchdowns in the nationally televised game.

Raiders fullback Marv Hubbard and Jets receiver Don Maynard were two other players whose feats were overshadowed by Namath's passing show.

Hubbard gained 118 yards to become the ninth NFL rusher to hit the 1,000-yard mark this season. The 35-year-old Maynard caught seven Namath passes for 131 yards and reached an all-time NFL high of 632 career receptions.

The loss left the Jets at 7-6 and eliminated their chance of winning the American Conference's wild card playoff berth. The Raiders, as champions of the AFC West, are 9-3-1 and heading toward a playoff opener on the road against Pittsburgh, or possibly Cleveland, on Dec. 23.

The Raiders kept the Jets out of the end zone after Namath hit tight end Rich Caster on a touchdown pass play covering 49 yards in the first quarter. That score put the Jets ahead 7-3.

Two interceptions near the goal line helped the Raiders.

Lamonica put the ball into the end zone on a perfect 39-yard scoring toss to Fred Biletnikoff as the Raiders took a 10-7 lead in the second quarter, and a pass to Ray Chester in the fourth quarter produced a 68-yard touchdown play and the final 24-16 margin.

Namath left the game briefly after suffering a slight ankle injury. He waved a hand in appreciation as he limped off the field to the loud cheers of Oakland fans.

The touchdown pass to Chester was the biggest Oakland offensive blow of the night. It came right after Bobby Howfield's third field goal had cut Oakland's lead to 17-16.

Lamonica went to Chester, who was all alone behind the New York secondary, after faking a handoff to running back Charlie Smith on a third down and half-yard situation.

ABA Chief Threatens Cage War

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — American Basketball Association Commissioner Robert Carlson interrupted a meeting of the ABA Board of Trustees Monday for a news conference, announcing that if Congress fails to act on legislation which would permit an ABA and National Basketball Association merger, the ABA is prepared to return to all-out warfare in its fight for survival.

He also threatened the NBA with a law suit if it doesn't go through with a pro basketball merger, should Congress pass merger legislation.

"Under our merger agreement the NBA is forced to merge if Congress passes 'reasonable and appropriate' legislation authorizing the merger," he said.

Carlson spoke on the first of a two-day meeting of ABA owners.

The owners agreed on proposed merger legislation to be introduced when Congress convenes in January, Carlson said. He also predicted the bill would have the support of the players associations of both leagues.

During the last session of Congress, a bill authorizing any anti-trust exemption for the merger failed.

Swimming Champion Chooses Indiana U

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Charles Keating, a high school senior from Cincinnati and the sixth-ranked breaststroke swimmer in the world, has announced he will attend Indiana University.

Keating is the first freshman recruit of the season for IU swimming Coach James "Doc" Counsilman, who has guided the Hoosiers to 12 straight Big Ten championships and five straight NCAA titles.

Carlton Leads NL Pitching Statistics

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Steve Carlton, pitching for the Philadelphia Phillies, who had the league's worst won-lost record, led National League pitchers in eight categories, official statistics released today showed.

The 27-year-old left-hander had a 27-10 record for the most victories, this despite playing for a team that finished at 59-97.

Carlton's earned run average of 1.98 shaded Cincinnati righthander Gary Nolan, 15-5, who had 1.99. He started the most games, 41, completed the most, 30, and pitched the most innings, 346.

Carlton faced the most batters, 1,351, allowed the most hits, 257, and had the most strikeouts, 310. Unbeaten from June 7 through Aug. 17, his 15-game winning string was the NL's longest.

Right-hander Don Sutton, in his seventh season with the Los Angeles Dodgers, had the third best ERA of 2.08 and the most shutouts—nine to Carlton's eight. Sutton, 19-9, struck out 207 for fourth in that category, one whiff behind Bob Gibson, 19-11, of St. Louis, whose 2.46 ERA was fifth best. Tom Seaver of the New York Mets was runner-up to Carlton in victories, 21-12, and strikeouts, 249. Seaver served up 23 home run pitches, exceeded only by the 32 thrown by Ferguson Jenkins, 20-12, of the Chicago Cubs.

Jenkins and Gibson were tied for second in complete games with 23 each.

Clay Carroll, Cincinnati right-hander, set a major league record with 37 saves. Wayne Granger established the old mark of 35 in 1970 with the Reds. Carroll and Mike Marshall of Montreal appeared in the most games, 65 each.

New England Whalers Stop Winnipeg, 4-3

BOSTON (AP) — No wonder Coach Jack Kelly of the New England Whalers could smile. The great former Chicago Black Hawk Bobby Hull, now player-coach of the Winnipeg Jets in the World Hockey Association, had just pronounced the Whalers' defense the most experienced in the league.

The Whalers edged Hull's team 4-3 Monday night. Mike Hyndman and Kevin Ahearn scored third period goals within three minutes of each other to snap a 2-2 deadlock.

1. Card of Thanks

So many people have helped and comforted me, each in their individual way, during the long illness and death of my loved one, Mahlon Paxton, that I can only say it is deeply appreciated. I am especially grateful to Berger Hospital and staff; Dr. F. W. Anderson for his untiring devotion over the years; Rev. Maxine Krisher and Rev. Homer Morris for their kind words of comfort and consolation; to the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home for their excellent service; the pallbearers and all others who assisted in any way. All have my everlasting gratitude.

EACH Year during the holiday season thousands of people tour our old store recalling the nostalgia and warmth of Christmases years ago. Here you may browse through layers of artificial snow and two floors of thousands of old time, made-with-care and pride, country store products. Pottery, earthenware, jewelry, china, sweet tooth candies and lollipops. Rib-tickling jokes, hand-dipped candies, rings and things, rich fragrant soaps, stocking "stuffs", raffers of Early American woodenware and hand forged iron accessories, very new and very old, beautiful furniture, famous wood and brass cleaners or finishes, authentic furniture hardware, 1973 calendar towels in scenes of Currier and Ives, beautiful old-fashioned children's wheeled toys and bisque dolls, hand-crafted colonial pattern glassware and lamps, plus one of the largest selections to be found of restoration glass lamp shades, chimneys, electric, oil and any replacement parts. (Bring your lamps along for fitting ... a perfect gift idea, too.)

If you have never been here before, we suggest you plan your visit early before the Christmas rush begins. Weekdays are best. Plan on two hours — you can rest your weary feet on our pot belly stove. We hope you and your family find our old store that pleasant, comfortable friendly experience of a by-gone day. The season's best to you and yours from all of the storekeepers here at Peddlers — The General Store. At the crossroads of Marysville, Ohio, 117 Main Street N. (look for our rain barrel). Holiday hours: 9:00 to 9:00 weekdays, Sundays 12:30 to 9:00. Easy Old-Time no interest payment plans. We also wholesale to other peddlers, dealers and flea markets who have a vendors license. Discounts to employers or to organizations buying groups of merchandise. See you soon? It's easy to get here on State Route 33, 25 miles NW of Columbus. Two fine restaurants within a block of store. Write for our new 1973 Spring catalog.

1. Card of Thanks

So many people have helped and comforted me, each in their individual way, during the long illness and death of my loved one, Mahlon Paxton, that I can only say it is deeply appreciated. I am especially grateful to: Berger Hospital and staff; Dr. F. W. Anderson for his untiring devotion over the years; Rev. Maxine Krisher and Rev. Homer Morris for their kind words of comfort and consolation; to the Detenbaugh Funeral Home for their excellent service; the pallbearers and all others who assisted in any way. All have my everlasting gratitude.
Mrs. Mahlon Paxton

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime finds delays and difficulty in gaining the support of an official who has the power to make your dreams come true. In the evening you have increased energy and the resourcefulness to make considerable progress and achieve your goals.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Attending to all the obligations that are bugging you can be difficult early in the day, but by evening you can be happy with the benefits they bring. Perseverance brings fine results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You find friends are unresponsive during day hours, but just the opposite in the evening, so keep busy with business matters during the day. You can gain your aims socially tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The public in general is not very cooperative during the daytime hours, but conditions change for the better in the evening. Forget that shy manner just because your mate is forceful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan how to become a more popular and important person and then take initial steps in such directions. Use information obtained from a new associate to your best advantage.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle important matters with associates during the morning and clear the slate for bigger things ahead. Mate is busy but will accompany you to a vital function that is beneficial.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although an associate is demanding, plan to work along with this person for best mutual results. Become more active in your community. Show others how charming you can be.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Keep focused on the labors ahead of you and accomplish much during the day which will give you more free time for the social side of life. Co-workers could be nervous, so be poised.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have a creative idea in the morning, but can do very little about it until tonight, so tackle it then. Those you contact today are very cordial but don't rely on them for favors.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do whatever you can to please kin so that there will be more harmony at home in the future. A fundamental situation may appear difficult, but all works out fine in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle routine affairs in a most efficient way during the day and by evening you can enjoy hobbies with close friends. Tomorrow would be a better day to handle correspondence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) This is a fine day for getting financial affairs in order during the day so that you can be free of worry tonight. Look to a clever business associate for ideas you need to advance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal morning for improving health and appearance so that the social evening ahead can be a successful one. Plan what it is you want and then state your aims to good friends.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who early in life has an insatiable appetite for knowledge, and should be encouraged in this so that upon reaching maturity your progeny can make a big name in life. The ability to solve problems will be extraordinary here. Much success is in this chart, no matter what the forte may be. A fine family life is the prospect.

NEW YORK (AP) — One thing was accomplished by man's sixth landing on the moon: It gave the nation a brief respite, 30 minutes at most, from daytime quiz shows and soap operas on network television.

But cowboys and comedy held a firm grip on the CBS television network during prime time Monday night as Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt were out taking their first stroll on the moon.

CBS hadn't planned to interrupt shows scheduled for prime evening time. ABC and NBC had, and they gave viewers the first look at the clear, remarkably sharp color television pictures from the moon. But you had to look all the time, lest you miss them.

ABC made the initial showing at 8:20 p.m. EST. It broke into its regularly scheduled "Rookies" program for a one-minute live picture of the astronauts and the American flag they put on the moon.

NBC followed suit at 9:03 p.m., interrupting the start of its Monday night movie with a videotape replay of essentially the same scene shown earlier on ABC.

CBS finally covered the walk live and with tape replays in a special report which, like NBC's, began at 11:30 p.m. EST. ABC's final report came at the end of its regular Monday pro football game.

Earlier in the day, all three networks interrupted regular daytime shows to cover the successful 2:55 p.m. EST lunar landing of the astronauts.

The networks then used simulated depictions of the landing and the interior of the spacecraft, Challenger. The nation's space agency hadn't planned live television transmissions from the ship during its descent.

Both NBC and ABC went on the air at 7:30 p.m. EST with equally good 30-minute reports on the landing. They had hoped at that time to show live television pictures from the moon.

Delays in setting up Challenger's camera forced the two networks to fill time with other material, then interrupt regular programs with a total of three brief reports.

But the fill material wasn't dull. NBC's half hour included good studies by correspondent Roy Neal of four Apollo astronauts who quit the space race after returning from the moon.

ABC closed its excellent prime-time report of 30 minutes with a sardonic, stop-action summary of past Apollo moon missions.

UNANIMOUS — Catcher Carlton Fisk, Boston Red Sox, is American League rookie of the year award winner—first unanimous choice.

Geologist Schmitt Proves Self Greatest Moon Lover

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Man has worshipped the moon, made poetry and love in its light and spent billions to understand its mysteries. Now, some thinking goes, he's bored with it.

But don't try telling that to geologist Harrison H. Schmitt. He's a moon lover.

Fellow Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Ronald E. Evans are suitors in high standing. But Schmitt is enraptured. He's got a crush on the moon almost as big as the moon itself.

"We're breathing so hard, the windows are fogging up on the inside for a change," Evans had said as they got their first look at the moon. Mild stuff.

Schmitt, a bachelor, has led the wooing, adoring every rock and crater, mare and massif.

"Absolutely incredible! Absolutely incredible!" he gasped when the lunar module Challenger landed at Taurus-Littrow on Monday.

"Man, look at that rock out there," he said. "I think I can see the rim of Camelot."

"The majestic moment of my life," he said, as his excitement spilled to earth a quarter-million miles away.

"Oh, I'll tell you. That's something everyone's got to do once in their life." Every man has one great love.

"God it's beautiful out here," he said as Challenger nestled onto the moon's surface.

Then he checked the instruments: "The manifold hasn't changed. The RCS hasn't changed. Ascent water hasn't changed. The batteries haven't changed."

"Oh my golly, only we have changed."

Once, Cernan tried to distract him. "Hey Jack, just stop," the commander said. "You owe yourself just 30 seconds to look up over the South Massif and look at the earth."

"What? The earth?"

"Just look up there."

"Aaaah, you've seen one earth, you've seen them all."

4 Lima Men Still Missing On Air Trip

MARION, Ill. (AP) — The search for a plane bearing four Lima, Ohio men, missing since Friday, came to a temporary halt Monday when bad weather hit the Illinois, Arkansas and Missouri search area.

Capt. Thomas Wimberly of the Illinois Civil Air Patrol said the single-engine plane, bound from Lima to Brady, Tex., was last heard from moments after it left the Williamson County airport in Marion Friday evening.

Chief flight controller for the Marion airport, Charles Jefferson, said the men were on a weekend hunting trip when bad weather forced them to make a brief stopover in Marion. He said they did not file a flight plan there.

Wimberly identified them as Joe Height, the pilot; his father, John Height; the pilot's grandfather, Joseph Height, and Frank Tomlinson.

Wimberly said the Civil Air Patrol is conducting an aerial search along the supposed route of the flight in Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Texas.

Civil Defense officials found nothing Monday when they searched Carb Orchard Lake near Marion, after speculating the plane may have tried to return to Marion and crashed into the water.

Jefferson said the only indication the plane may have crashed is that it did not land Saturday in Brady, Tex., as it should have.

Several people, Wimberly said, had called the CAP to report seeing or hearing a plane flying low Friday evening. The reports were checked and yielded nothing.

"There is only one thing to assume," Jefferson said. "... that they are down somewhere."

NEBRASKA GRANGE

Nebraska Grange No. 64 met in regular session Tuesday Dec. 5. Worthy Master Ray Noecker conducted the business.

The charter was draped in memory of past master of Ohio State Grange—Byron Fredricks.

One application for membership was presented and referred to investigating committee. Edward Crites, youth chairman, gave a report on youth meeting and plans for the conference on Dec. 30 and 31.

Nebraska Grange will serve for the blood canteen in July of 1973.

Resolutions of respect were read for a deceased member Mrs. Ruth Archer. Note of thanks was read from the Red Cross for the Christmas donation to the Veteran Hospital in Chillicothe.

Report of the auditing committee was given by Joseph Peters.

Noecker announced that state delegate would be present to give his report from state convention.

It was decided to change the next meeting to Jan. 16 for the annual oyster stew supper at 6:30 p.m. Each family is asked to bring either a salad or desert.

The program was opened with the lecturer reading Christmas poems.

Drawing of door prizes was followed by a gift exchange. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served by Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Hoffhines, Mr. and Mrs. David Dill, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sark, and Arthur Sark.

The hospitality committee, was Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bennett; Mr. and Mrs. Don Collins, and Mrs. A. J. Dunkle.

SALTREEK VALLEY GRANGE

Saltcreek Valley Grange met Tuesday evening for the annual Christmas Party at Saltcreek School. A carry-in dinner was enjoyed by 30 members at 6:30 p.m. followed by a short business meeting conducted by Worthy Master Francis Fraunfelter.

Mrs. Donna Beougher was reported to be at Doctor's Hospital North awaiting surgery.

Saltcreek Grange members have pecans for sale. The Grange Youth conference is to be held at the 4-H and Grange Building on Dec. 30 and 31. All grange youth are invited. "Let's Think About Christmas" was the theme for the program by lecturer Paul Dunkle.

Sung by all was "It's beginning To Look A Lot Like Christmas". Almost everyone present read an original poem about Christmas.

A contest "hug the candle holder" by Hoyt Timmons, Fred DeLong, and Barbara McKenzie proved to be a lot of fun.

A poem "The Night Before Christmas" was read by Mary DeLong.

Everyone joined in singing "White Christmas". A contest on who could best hold on to money was followed by a poem, "Husband's Dilemma." Paul Dunkle read a story composed by all present.

The concluding event was a gift exchange. The next meeting will be held on Jan. 2.

No Holiday Fines

MENTOR, Ohio (AP) — Traffic violators in Mentor have been given the holidays off.

Municipal Court Judge Alfred Dahling said no traffic hearings will be held from this Friday through Jan. 3 so no one has to dig into Christmas money to pay a fine.

Battle Of Evolution Theory Being Revived In California

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Don't put Adam and Eve and the Garden of Eden on the same level as Darwin's theory of evolution, 19 Nobel laureates are pleading with the California Board of Education.

In a letter to the board Monday, the California scientists revived again the 113-year-old controversy begun when Charles Darwin published his theory of man's origin. The board is scheduled to select new science textbooks Thursday, and the subject of man's origin may get a revised treatment.

"Creation 'theory' is not based on science and does not belong in a science textbook," wrote the Nobel Prize winners, adding their prestige to a list including the National Academy of Science and a half-dozen other professional societies.

Religious fundamentalists want the Biblical version of the origin of life placed side by side with Darwin in the new science textbooks the board will select this week.

The scientists want only evolution discussed in science textbooks, arguing it is the sole scientific explanation of life's origins generally accepted in the world.

Last month, the State Curriculum Commission tried to satisfy both factions by drawing up a compromise proposal that would leave out all mention of God and Genesis in textbooks but reduce Darwin's theory to simple speculation.

In a covering letter to the board, Dr. Arthur Kornberg, Stanford University professor of biochemistry, wrote that the the two theories cannot live together in the same book because the Bible's version "is clearly not scientific but religious."

Among the other scientists joining in the petition were Stanford University's William Shockley and Linus Pauling; former Atomic Energy Commission head Glenn T. Seaborg and physicist Harold C. Urey, both of the University of California.

The flying wedge was out-lawed in football when President Theodore Roosevelt threatened to ban the game by executive edict unless players quit being so rough.

Civil Rights Commission Wins More State Funding

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Controlling Board has approved a more than $300,000 emergency funding request for additional personnel by one state commission but denied a similar request by another.

The board Monday approved $346,180 for the Civil Rights Commission to hire 24 more investigators, eight more attorneys and eight more support staff.

The work load of the Civil Rights Commission has increased three times faster than the number of investigators, according to James Friedman, its chairman.

"The commission has reached a crisis in case handling," he said.

Friedman said if the staff was not increased 100 complaints would not be settled because the law says that a case is "dead" after one year.

Ohio Penitentiary To Become Empty By Next July

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The remaining inmates in Ohio Penitentiary will be transferred to other institutions no later than June 30, marking the end of the 138-year-old prison fortress in Ohio's capital city.

Ohio Corrections Director Bennett Cooper announced Monday the facility would be closed with the transfer of the last prisoner.

About 500 remain at the penitentiary. About 1,200 already have been transferred to single cells at the new, $32 million Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville.

The state had planned to use the Columbus prison for a reception and diagnostic center for all persons entering state prisons. But Cooper said plans now call for the Chillicothe Correctional Institute to act as the center.

$1 Million Suit Filed By Fugitive's Wife

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — U.S. District Judge Carl Rubin was to begin hearing testimony today in a $1 million suit that charges four southeastern Ohio law enforcement officials with a violation of civil rights.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Oliver Mills against Athens Police Chief Charles Cochran; Jackson County Sheriff Hile Fyffe; and two unnamed sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. Mills' husband was convicted of killing a Vinton County sheriff during an arrest attempt several years ago. She contended that the officers illegally confined her while a search was underway for her husband.

Phyllis Diller Slates Divorce From Spouse

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Comedienne Phyllis Diller says she and her second husband, Warden Donovan, have separated.

"After my face lift, he began to look too old to me," she quipped Sunday.

"This added personnel will enable the commission to process a total of 1,744 cases during the current period," Friedman said, and will clear up the backlog.

With the additional staff the waiting time between filing and assigning for investigation should be reduced from an average 44 weeks to 90 days, according to the chairman.

The board approved the funds in two separate actions. It approved $211,655 for investigators and supportive staff for the commission and $135,535 for the lawyers in the Attorney General's Civil Rights Division.

Sen. Robert Shaw, R-16 Columbus, was the only member of the seven member board to vote "no."

Shaw suggested that the commission wait until the new biennium begins in July, 1973, and seek the additional money in the budget.

The Commerce Department presented many of the same arguments about not being able to handle the increasing number of complaints in its Consumer Protection Department and sought a total of $336,561 in emergency funding.

It requested seven attorneys and 14 investigative personnel.

Joining Shaw in voting against the Commerce Department request were Rep. Mack Pemberton, R-75 Columbus, and Rep. Frederick Young, R-84 Dayton.

The vote was three-to-three. Four affirmative votes are needed for approval.

Red Force Retreats To Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — The remnants of a North Vietnamese battalion mauled by government troops were fleeing through jungle country today back to the Parrot's Beak region of Cambodia, military sources reported.

Air strikes and artillery were harassing the retreating force, and South Vietnamese infantry units were pursuing it.

The Communist battalion from Svay Rieng, the easternmost province of Cambodia, had been in South Vietnam only five hours when it ran into a militia battalion lying in wait.

During five hours of some of the sharpest fighting in weeks, 79 North Vietnamese were killed and two were captured, the Saigon command announced. Government casualties were put at only three wounded.

Other ground action in South Vietnam was light, the Saigon command reporting only 57 enemy attacks from 6 a.m. Monday to 6 a.m. today, and 47 of them were shelling attacks.

U.S. B52s for the sixth straight day pounded North Vietnamese supply dumps and troops on the coast just north of the demilitarized zone, concentrating about 18 strikes at a spot 41 miles southeast of Dong Hoi.

Geologist Schmitt Proves Self Greatest Moon Lover

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Man has worshipped the moon, made poetry and love in its light and spent billions to understand its mysteries. Now, some thinking goes, he's bored with it.

But don't try telling that to geologist Harrison H. Schmitt. He's a moon lover.

Fellow Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Ronald E. Evans are suitors in high standing. But Schmitt is enraptured. He's got a crush on the moon almost as big as the moon itself.

"We're breathing so hard, the windows are fogging up on the inside for a change," Evans had said as they got their first look at the moon. Mild stuff.

Schmitt, a bachelor, has led the wooing, adoring every rock and crater, mare and massif.

"Absolutely incredible! Absolutely incredible!" he gasped when the lunar module Challenger landed at Taurus-Littrow on Monday.

"Man, look at that rock out there," he said. "I think I can see the rim of Camelot."
